MINORITIES' PROBLEM

POLAND'S DECISION CHALLENGED

SIR JOHN SIMON INTERVENES

London, Sept. 14.
The gravity of the decision announced yesterday by the Polish Foreign Minister, Colonel Beck, when he stated that Poland refused any longer to co-operate with international bodies concerning the protection of minority populations, was emphasised by the appearance of both Sir John Simon and M. Barthou at to-day's meeting of the League of Nations Assembly.

Sir John Simon said the country he represented, together with some other parties, were signatories of the Polish minority treaty, in which Poland accepted the guarantee of the League for the protection of national minorities. The terms of Article 93 of the Versailles Treaty could not be overlooked.

BOUND BY TREATY.

Poland had further accepted the procedure as to the manner in which the guarantee was to be exercised. Those resolutions became binding on Poland by reason of her acceptance. No country could possibly release herself from the obligations by unilateral action.

Sir John Simon, after remarking that the effect of Colonel Beck's statement may have been misunderstood, examined his speech in more detail.

Referring to the proposal for universalisation of international protection of minorities and the particular position of certain States bound by the minority treaties, he pointed out these two matters were entirely distinct. Regarding the former, the Polish draft resolution on the subject was already before the Assembly's Political Commission.

ITALY AND FRANCE CONCUR.

M. Barthou, in supporting Sir John Simon, said he spoke as the representative of France, the friend and ally of Poland, and could not believe Colonel Beck's speech was intended as a threat or an attempt to impose a fait accompli on the League.

Baron Alois (Italy) also supported the censure and, like M. Barthou, admitted the possibility of treaty revision, but said adaptation must be affected legally and existing engagements respected until replaced by new provisions. —British Wireless.

SHIP CAPTAIN'S DEATH

CAPT. B. GRIFFITHS PASSES AWAY

We regret to have to record the death of Captain Bosworth Griffiths, master of Messrs. Williamson and Company's s.s. Kalapool, which took place at the Kowloon Hospital this morning.

The late Capt. Griffiths was taken ill with typhoid at Amoy about a week ago and was brought here for admission to hospital. Despite all that could be done for him, he passed away this morning.

Aged 44 years, Capt. Griffiths was a native of Christchurch, New Zealand. He leaves a widow, residing in Kowloon, for whom the greatest sympathy will be felt.

The funeral takes place this evening, passing the Monument at 5 p.m.

THREASURY BILLS

London, Sept. 14.
A total of $35,080,000 was applied for in tenders for $30,000,000 Treasury bills. The amount allotted in bills at three months was $29,830,000. The average rate was 10.5 per cent, as compared with 12.10 per cent a week ago. —British Wireless.

FRENCH REFORMS

DEPUTIES POWER RESTRICTION

BRITAIN AS MODEL

Paris, Sept. 14.
Important constitutional reforms have fructified in the mind of Premier Doumergue during his holiday at Tournefeuille.

He is returning to Paris on Thursday next with a plan to restrict the power of the deputies, and prevent them from overthrowing the Government and reconstructing ministries without a general election.

M. Doumergue has always admired the British system of government and he has borrowed ideas from Britain in the development of his new restrictive scheme, it is believed. —Reuter.

PARACHUTE ADVENTURE

JUMPER LANDS ON LION'S CAGE

TRAINER GOES TO RESCUE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1934. Received, September 15, 10.15 a.m.)

London, Sept. 14.

A painful ten minutes was endured by the parachutist, Ben Turner, who leapt 1,000 feet from an aeroplane and landed on the grill of a lion's cage at the Surbiton Zoo. He was unable to reach the ground because the parachute was entangled with some trees.

A couple of huge lions climbed the cross-bars of the cage and angrily tried to reach Turner's legs. They refused to be pacified though they were doused with cold water, until the trainer entered their cage, wielding a whip and firing blank cartridges. —Reuter Special.

The popularity of the exhibition of entries in the Telegraph Amateur Photographic Competition, which had its closing day yesterday, may be judged from the fact that nearly 1,000 visitors attended during the five days.

HIGH OFFICIALS INVOLVED

NAMES SUPPRESSED ON GOVERNMENT PLEA

ITALY'S BIG SHARE IN ARMS PROFITS

WASHINGTON, SEPT. 14.

EVIDENCE OF A SENSATIONAL NATURE WAS GIVEN TO-DAY BEFORE THE NYE COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING AMERICAN MUNITIONS MANUFACTURERS' CONTRACTS, WHEN A REPRESENTATIVE OF THE DU PONT DE NEMOURS CORPORATION DECLARED THERE HAD BEEN BIG COMMISSIONS PAID TO CHINESE OFFICIALS IN ORDER TO EXPEDITE SALES OF MATERIALS IN CHINA.

The same witness asserted that the Corporation had been given information which led them to believe that Germany, recently, had been manufacturing large quantities of high explosives, in contravention of the restrictions of the Treaty of Versailles.

Another development which caused interest to quicken in the investigation was the announcement that, following protests from at least five foreign Governments to trade with other nations for a supply of arms. He of the inquiry.

Senator Nye himself told the Committee that he understood China had used $10,000,000 of the R.F.C. loan from America for the purchase of grain, in order to trade with other nations for a supply of arms. He named Italy as one of the nations obtaining benefits in this transaction.

In view of the protests of at least five governments abroad, a censorship has been imposed on some phases of the munitions inquiry.

The names, for instance, of a number of Chinese officials who are alleged to have accepted generous commissions from the Du Pont de Nemours Corporation, are being withheld from the official record on the ground that their publication might have political repercussions abroad.

A little time ago, the inquiry Committee privately conferred with the Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, and Secretary Daniel Roper of the Commerce Department. Senator Nye, chairman of the Committee of Inquiry, declared afterwards:

"There is no inclination and there has been no request to soft pedal on anything. We are going right ahead and nobody has suggested that we have gone too far."

SALES TO CHINA.

Giving evidence at the continued hearing of the Nye Committee's investigation of munitions contracts in the United States, Mr. Lamont Du Pont, an executive of the Du Pont de Nemours Corporation, declared that the joint representative in Shanghai of the Du Pont Corporation and the Imperial Chemicals Limited suggested in 1933 that the two companies should make representations to the United States' State Department and the British Foreign Office respectively, with a view to facilitating arms shipments to Canton.

COMMISSIONS PAID.

Mr. Lamont Du Pont also said that he and Senator Townsend in 1932 visited the then Assistant Secretary of State, Mr. Rogers, prior to the sale of a patented hydrogen process to the Mitsui Company of Japan and to China. The company was then engaged in what were described as "warlike activities," but the corporation had given him to understand that the process was not to be used for military purposes.

REVELATIONS AT NYE INQUIRY

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1934. Received, September 15, 9.55 a.m.)

Washington, Sept. 14.

The Nye investigating Committee to-day produced evidence that the Du Pont agent in Shanghai, Mr. R. Montague Smith, suggested that his home office make representation to the State Department and the British Foreign Office in an effort to lift the British restrictions on shipping explosives to China during 1933 and that Mr. Lamont Du Pont, one of the executives of the Corporation, had sought the permission of the State Department at Washington in 1932 to sell the rights of a secret hydrogen process to the Mitsui Company of Japan, which would have been a most important deal for the Corporation.

Mr. Lamont Du Pont told the Committee, however, that the process would not enable Japan to produce more ammonia, nitric acid or munitions than without its aid, but that it was possible to produce these materials more cheaply.

As to the payment of commissions to Chinese military officers in 1932, the procedure was unusual and not in accord with company policies, said Mr. Du Pont.

SIR SHENTON THOMAS

SUCCEEDS SIR C. CLEMENTI

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1934. Received, September 15, 9.41 a.m.)

London, Sept. 14.

The appointment of Sir Shenton Thomas, K.C.M.G., Governor of the Gold Coast, as Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Straits Settlements and High Commissioner of the F.M.S., in succession to Sir Cecil Clementi, resigned, is gazetted.

Sir Shenton Thomas Whiteleggs Thomas, who has been Governor of the Gold Coast since 1932, was educated at Leatherhead and Queen's College, Cambridge. Born in 1879, the son of the late Rev. T. W. Thomas, Rector of Newton-in-the-Isle, Cambridge, he entered the Colonial Civil Service in 1909 as Assistant District Commissioner, East African Protectorate. He was transferred to the Secretariat in 1910, became Assistant Chief Secretary of Uganda in 1919, Principal Assistant Secretary in Nigeria in 1921, Deputy Chief Secretary in 1923, Colonial Secretary of the Gold Coast from 1927 to 1929, and Governor of Nyasaland from 1929 to 1932, since when he has been Governor of the Gold Coast.

He married a daughter of Colonel J. A. L. Montgomery, C.S.I., and there is one daughter by the marriage. —United Press.

LONDON-MELBOURNE AIR RACE

Wiley Post Compelled To Withdraw

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1934. Received, September 15, 10.24 a.m.)

Oklahoma City, Sept. 14.

Wiley Post, the noted American airman, has been forced to abandon his plan to compete in the London-Melbourne air race, as his machine, the Winnie Mae, was damaged in a recent flight to the stratosphere.

Post had hoped to fly the machine in the race at a height of seven miles at 300 miles an hour, with the aid of special oxygen apparatus.

A Sydney message states that Sir Charles Kingsford Smith, the well-known Australian airman, declares that Post's withdrawal has eliminated his most formidable competitor. "I am extremely sorry for his misfortune," he added. —Reuter Special.

cheaply.

As to the payment of commissions to Chinese military officers in 1932, the procedure was unusual and not in accord with company policies, said Mr. Du Pont.

GRAIN LOAN FOR ARMS.
Senator Nye charged that China had used $10,000,000 of the R.F.C. loan last year, which was advanced by the United States to buy grain, in order to trade with other countries for arms and munitions for Chinese troops engaged in hostilities against Japan.

Senator Nye did not reveal details, but he understood, he said, that most of the grain secured through the loan was traded to Italy.

The Committee curtailed certain further startling disclosures due to a protest against the inquiry's scope. Foreign governments were harassing the State Department, said Mr. Roper, to prevent these disclosures being made. public Mr. Roper said American business would suffer as a result of the airing of evidence regarding military purposes.

The British yacht Endeavour, owned by Mr. T. O. M. Sopwith, challenger for the America's Cup, and the American defender, Rainbow, are trimmed and ready for to-morrow's first race of the series.

The race will be thirty miles, in a windward and leeward course.

Immense crowds are thronging here to watch the contest. —United Press.

Road Cleared To Geneva For Soviet

SINO-TURKISH RIVALRY

Geneva, Sept. 15.

It is learned here that M. Maxim Litvinoff has replied satisfactorily regarding the plans of the League of Nations to admit Soviet Russia to the Council table at Geneva.

This is the information in the hands of well-informed French quarters, who now anticipate a smooth passage for the Soviet into the League of Nations, in spite of any opposition.

TURKISH AMBITION.

Meanwhile, Turkish quarters claim they are sure of gaining a non-permanent seat on the League Council.

High authorities insist that they have more than sufficient promises to defeat China's hope of securing the vote for re-eligibility in the Council. —Reuter.

COMPLETE AGREEMENT.

Later reports from Geneva indicate that complete agreement has been reached between the Soviet representatives and the League officials regarding procedure for the entry of Russia. Formalities in this connection are expected to be completed early next week.

Even the states which did not accept the first French draft of the invitation to Russia, have now approved of procedure, it is learned.

The creation of the Silver Exchange in Montreal followed the American move to restrict operations in New York, immediately after President Roosevelt nationalised the commodity. —Reuter.

CONTROL OF IMPORTS

BRITAIN STUDYING GERMAN DECREE

PARLEY PLANNED IN BERLIN

London, Sept. 14.

The effects of recent decrees issued by the German Minister of Economics, Dr. Schacht, have been subjected to close examination during the past few days, with particular reference to their bearing on the Anglo-German exchange agreement, which was signed as recently as August 10, and which came into operation on August 20.

In accordance with these decrees, full control will be exercised over all imports going into Germany as from September 24. Machinery for operating this control provides for estimates being made in advance to the amount of foreign exchange likely to be available each month, and limitation of that month's imports will be strictly controlled by the issue of permits so that payments may be met within the estimate.

IMPORTANT CHANGES.

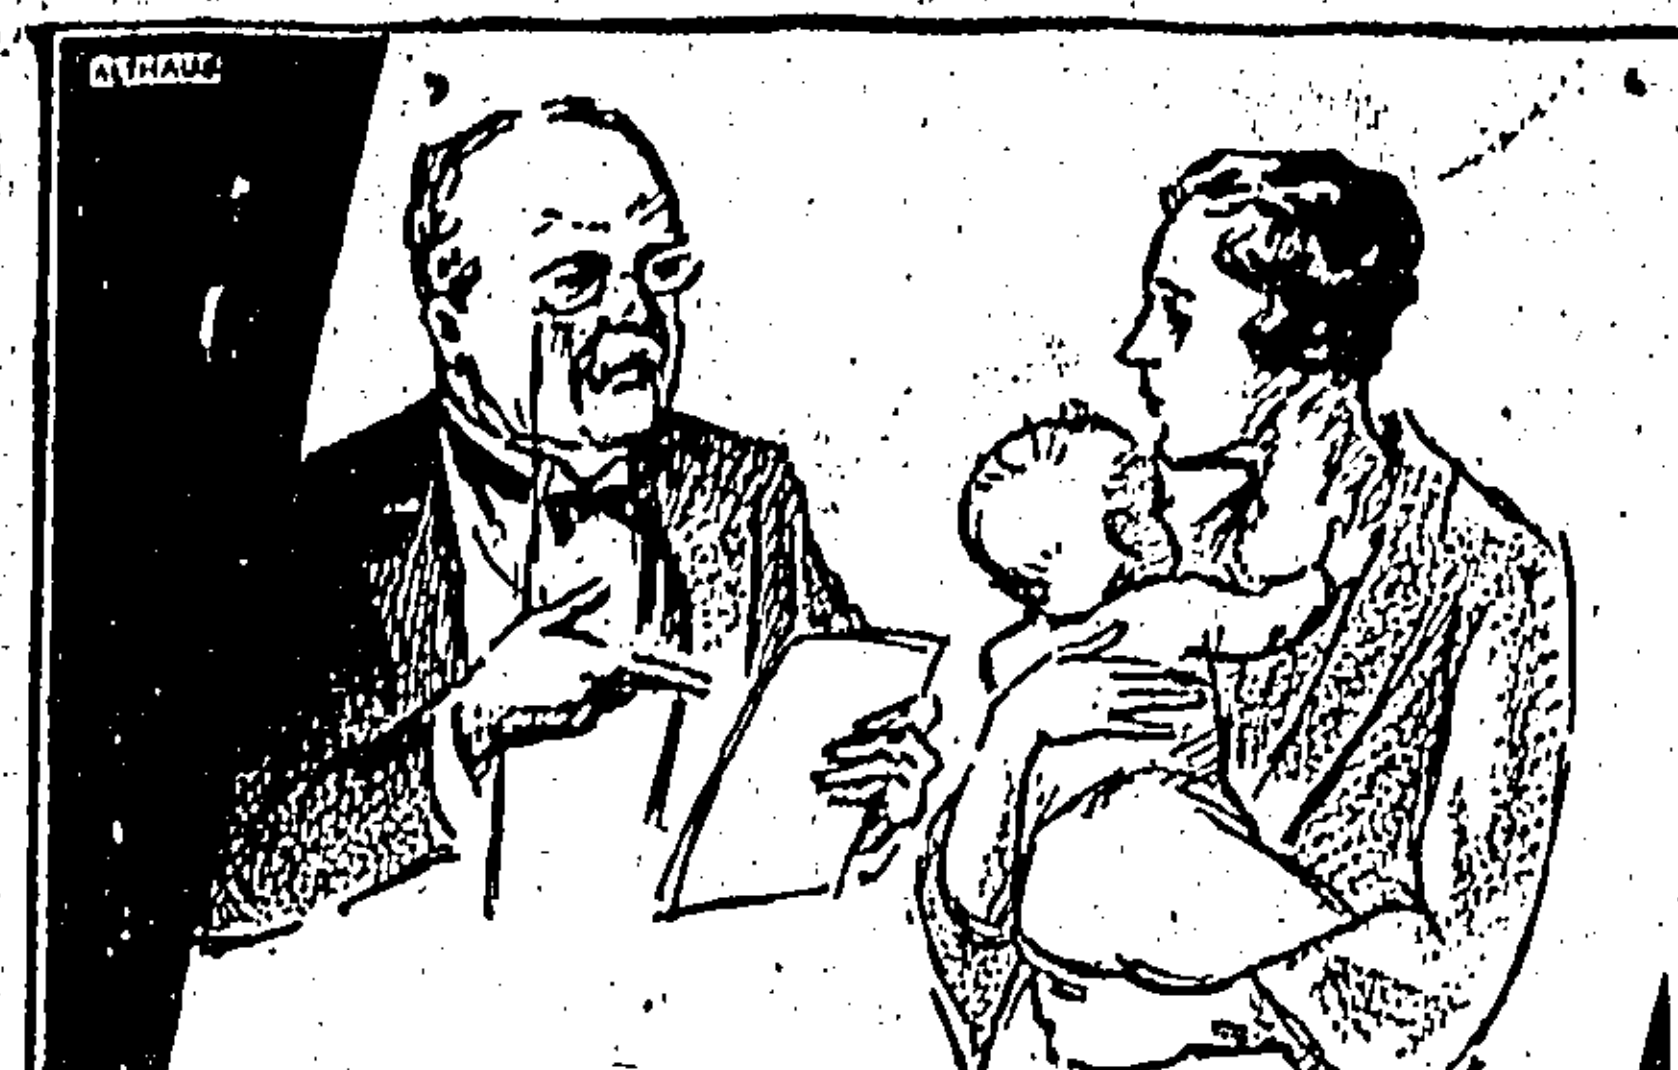

Two important changes are introduced by the new system. First, the control applies not only as in the past to raw materials but to imports generally, and second, the new machinery will involve the abolition of general exchange permits which formed the basis of the recent Anglo-German agreement. In these circumstances discussions with the German Government are generally considered necessary to discover in greater detail how the new machinery will function, and whether the recent Anglo-German agreement can continue to operate under the new regulations; and if not, whether it is desirable to substitute for it a fresh agreement.

Now that the Lancashire spinners have refused the terms offered by Germany for repayment of outstanding debts the whole question of repayment of Germany's existing commercial debts to this country remains unsettled and the matter will be raised in the Anglo-German discussions.

PARLEY ARRANGED.

The Foreign Office announces it has been agreed between His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom and the German Government that the delegation headed by Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, Chief Economic Advisor to His Majesty's Government, shall proceed immediately to Berlin to initiate discussions on the commercial and financial relations of the two countries, as affected by the new German machinery for control of imports and allocation of foreign exchange. —Reuter.

DATED FACES

I am determinedly thankful that I see faces varied from year to year by a new point of view or a new shade of powder—it's no necessary as variety in vegetables. After all, there's something about a dated face (I do not refer to age) which gives less pleasure to its owner than even those who look at it.

Color in skin texture is apt to vary from season to season and year to year—so every woman, having bought herself new fall frocks, should be sure that her make-up is still sympathetic.

In determining what shade of powder you should use, try two shades on either side of the face and compare them, looking at yourself from front and profile.

Study your "powder" make-up from a distance—it's one of the first things an art student learns about painting, and a woman should do it when trying powder shades.

If the powder looks right six or eight feet away, then it is probably right close-up!

"Decency" Campaign Spreads to India

PURITY LEAGUES

Christians, Hindus, and Moslems in Calcutta are pledging themselves to fight sex films (says Reuters). A "League of Decency," started by Roman Catholics, and supported by people of all other religions, has been formed.

This follows the formation of a League of Decency in Karachi and another in Bombay.

Everyone joining the League of Decency makes this pledge:—

"I wish to join the League of Decency which condemns vile and unwholesome moving pictures. I unite with all who protest against them as a grave danger to youth, to family life, and to religion."

"I condemn absolutely those impure motion pictures which, with other degrading agencies, are corrupting public morals and promoting a sex mania throughout the world."

"I shall do all I can to arouse public opinion against those motion pictures which display vice as something natural and reasonable, which present criminals of any class as heroes and heroines, which present filthy ideas of life as something acceptable to decent men and women."

"I unite with all who condemn the display of suggestive advertisements on bill boards at theatre entrances and elsewhere, and the favourable notices given to immoral pictures."

"Considering these evils, I hereby promise to remain away from all motion pictures except those which do not offend against decency and morality; and I promise further to secure as many members as possible for this League of Decency."

"I make this protest in a spirit of self-respect, and with the certain belief that the vast majority of the people do not want filthy pictures, but clean entertainment and educational features."

An announcement about the League of Decency declares that the movement "is not a sudden appearance of Mrs. Grundy, but the penetration into Calcutta of what is developing into a world wide revolt against sex films."

BRITAIN MAKES PROGRESS.

The following is an extract from the Madras Mail—

"The British film industry will receive with gratification the report of the Bengal Board of Film Censors, which reveals that during the year 1932-33 no less than 32.87 per cent of the total film footage submitted to the Board was British."

"America, which used to take as much as 98 per cent of this market, had to be content during the year under review with 52.49 per cent, and Indian film production, which once accounted 1 per cent, has gone up to 9.97 per cent."

"Britain a few years ago contributed less than 1 per cent of the total so with the record of 32.87 per cent recorded last year she shows the most remarkable advance."

British films are making excellent progress in the French market. Whilst the number of British films exhibited in France during the first six months of 1933 amounted to nine, it was increased to 18 in the corresponding period of 1934. Moreover, when comparing the total number of foreign films screened in France during the periods in question (149 in 1933 and 128 in 1934), the percentage of British pictures has been raised from 6.1 to 9.4.

Following brief stage experience, Miss Bellamy entered motion pictures to play leads in "Lorna Doone," "The Iron Horse," "Mother Knows Best," "Sandy," and scores of other productions.

Warner Oland again is Chan in "Charlie Chan in London."

"THE UNKNOWN WARRIOR."

The British film "The Unknown Warrior," produced for Aco Films, will be released in time for Armistice Week programmes.

"The Unknown Warrior" is based upon the belief dear to the hearts of all parents who lost their sons in the war that the tomb of the Unknown Warrior in Westminster Abbey contains the mortal remains of their boy.

It runs for just over eight minutes.

"THE OLD CURIOSITY SHOP."

Walter Dexter, honorary editor of "The Dickensian," and a vice-president of the Dickens Fellowship, has been invited by B.I.P. to lend his experience to Thomas Bentley in the production of "The Old Curiosity Shop," which will shortly commence at Elstree.

Tests for the characters are proceeding. At the moment the great difficulty is finding a 14-year-old girl for "Little Nell."

AERIAL RAID PROTECTION

BRITISH PUBLIC SAFEGUARDED

GAS-PROOF ROOMS

London, Sept. 11.
Britain's Government has perfected secret schemes for shielding the civilian population in the event of air raids. Ever since Mr. Stanley Baldwin, then Acting Prime Minister, revealed this news to the House of Commons on July 31, information has been leaking out regarding the nature of these concealed preparations.

In his official announcement, Mr. Baldwin said that the next stage involved communication with local authorities, public utility companies and others on whom responsibility would fall for action in an emergency. That the emergency he had in mind is war was left unsaid by Mr. Baldwin, though every Briton knew that was what he meant.

Before long steps will be taken to communicate necessary instructions to the general public," Mr. Baldwin concluded.

GAS PROOF ROOMS.

In the meantime the government has not been idle. Co-operating with the Air Ministry and War Office, the Home Office has been experimenting in making dwelling houses proof against aerial attack. Many of these tests have been undertaken in the East End of London as part of the scheme drawn up by the Committee of Imperial Defence.

The immediate objective has been to teach householders how to make at least one room gas proof by sealing up doors, windows and ventilators. One of the methods suggested is the use of canvas sheets, moistened with water or linseed oil preparations, to isolate passages and cellars for safety in times of air raids.

Instructions soon to be issued to the public will include means for recognizing poison gases and remedies to apply, how to deal with contaminated clothing or food, systems of gas warnings for neighbourhoods, erection of communal gas-proof shelters, first-aid appliances.

RED CROSS TRAINING.

Eight hundred Red Cross branches throughout the United Kingdom have been enlightening Red Cross members on these subjects.

One authority recently declared in an interview with the Daily Telegraph that a bundle of newspapers and a pot of paste could suffice to render a home gas proof.

This authority was Percival Agor, whom the major of East Ham appointed to form a civic air defence corps. Agor has been completing plans to assure safety from gas attack to the ten wards of East Ham.—United Press.

A clause in Mlle. Gallian's contract necessitated her learning English in three months. Another clause forbade her associating with French people or French-speaking persons in Hollywood, in order to force on her the necessary practice in speaking English.

CRUSADES TO BE FILMED.

The Crusades, one of history's greatest struggles, will be the subject of Cecil B. de Mille's next Paramount picture.

Castings for the picture will begin shortly with Richard Lionheart as the choice role to be filled. The four kings of Europe and the great Sultan Saladin will provide important parts for five stars, while four leading women will be the cast in the roles of the royal princesses of Europe.

Amsterdam, Sept. 11

That Holland, and not Belgium, may be the battlefield of Europe in the "next war" is the extremely uncomfortable conclusion being driven into Dutch minds as they contemplate the impressive fortifications now being rushed to completion on the eastern frontier of Belgium and France.

For the stronger those fortifications become, the more necessary will it be for the invader to plunge through Holland—neutrality or no neutrality—to skirt those frowning strongholds of steel and to drive through Belgium into France.

The Belgians study the map and are pleased; but the Dutch study the map, and are depressed.

For the more or less combined Franco-Belgian line now extends along their eastern frontier and as far north as the southern edge of the Dutch province of North Brabant. This is nice for the Belgians but very rough on the Dutch for it leaves exposed to attack that bag-like southern projection of Holland known as Limburg which contains nearly all the Dutch coal mines and such important towns as Maestricht and Venlo.

NARROW STRIP.

That narrow strip of Dutch soil was a sore temptation to the Germans in 1914, and volumes have been written on why they did not cross it and plunge straightway into Belgium.

One reason, according to the realistic Dutch, is that the Dutch Army was mobilized twenty-four hours ahead of the Belgian, and was concentrated in Limburg when the Germans advanced to the frontier. As soon as they realized that determined resistance confronted them, the Germans wheeled and in record time built a new road skirting Limburg and heading southward to the Belgian frontier; in a few days they were shelling and blowing up the much-vaunted Belgian fortresses along the River Meuse. It was a close shave for Holland.

POSITION NOW WORSE.

To-day, according to many in responsible positions, Holland's position is far worse, for the Germans would gain nothing by crossing that narrow strip of Limburg. No, what they must do is to strike openly at Holland, invading the heart of the country in a drive to get around the northern end of the Franco-Belgian line of forts.

And the small Dutch field army, which was quite sufficient to warn the Germans away from Limburg, is considered by no means sufficient to resist a determined German attack.

Popular consciousness of this has grown so strong that a great number of burghomasters in Southern Holland—the presumably exposed territory—have formed a committee to press upon the Government the folly of further reductions in the Army Budget.

FORESAW DANGER.

And when they address the grim Premier of Holland on this subject, by a curious turn of the wheel in Dutch affairs, they address the one man in the country who was responsible in 1911 for the complete reversal of the Dutch plans for defending their neutrality—the one man who foresaw the probable invasion of Limburg and was responsible for the Dutch field

DUKE'S TOUR.

To Stay At a Famous
Sheep StationThe Duke of Gloucester's Australian tour will include a visit to one of the Commonwealth's most famous sheep stations, Gostwyck, in New South Wales, owned by Mrs. Hugh Gordon. It has a world-wide reputation for the production of merino wool, says Austral News.

His Royal Highness will enjoy riding, good shooting, squash racquets, tennis and polo, there, as well as seeing how a modern sheep station is managed.

The station is set in lovely rolling New England country, 9,000 feet up. It comprises 23,000 acres and carries 16,000 sheep. The spacious homestead is surrounded by lawns, rose gardens, pergolas, flagged walks and a famous English elm avenue.

The station was flung into that narrow danger zone in 1914.

For when Herr Hendrick Collin was War Minister in 1911—after years of active service in the Dutch East Indian Army—he ridiculed the Dutch plans for national defence then in the War Office files. Those plans consisted mainly of a scheme to inundate the fortress girdle of Utrecht and Amsterdam. All the other territory was to be left virtually undefended, on the theory that as long as Holland could hold out in her inundated part of the country, all would be well.

It was Herr Collin, now the "strong man" of Holland, who insisted on building up a well-armed field army on modern lines, and it was that army, flung into Limburg in the twinkling of an eye, which preserved Dutch neutrality in that world catastrophe.

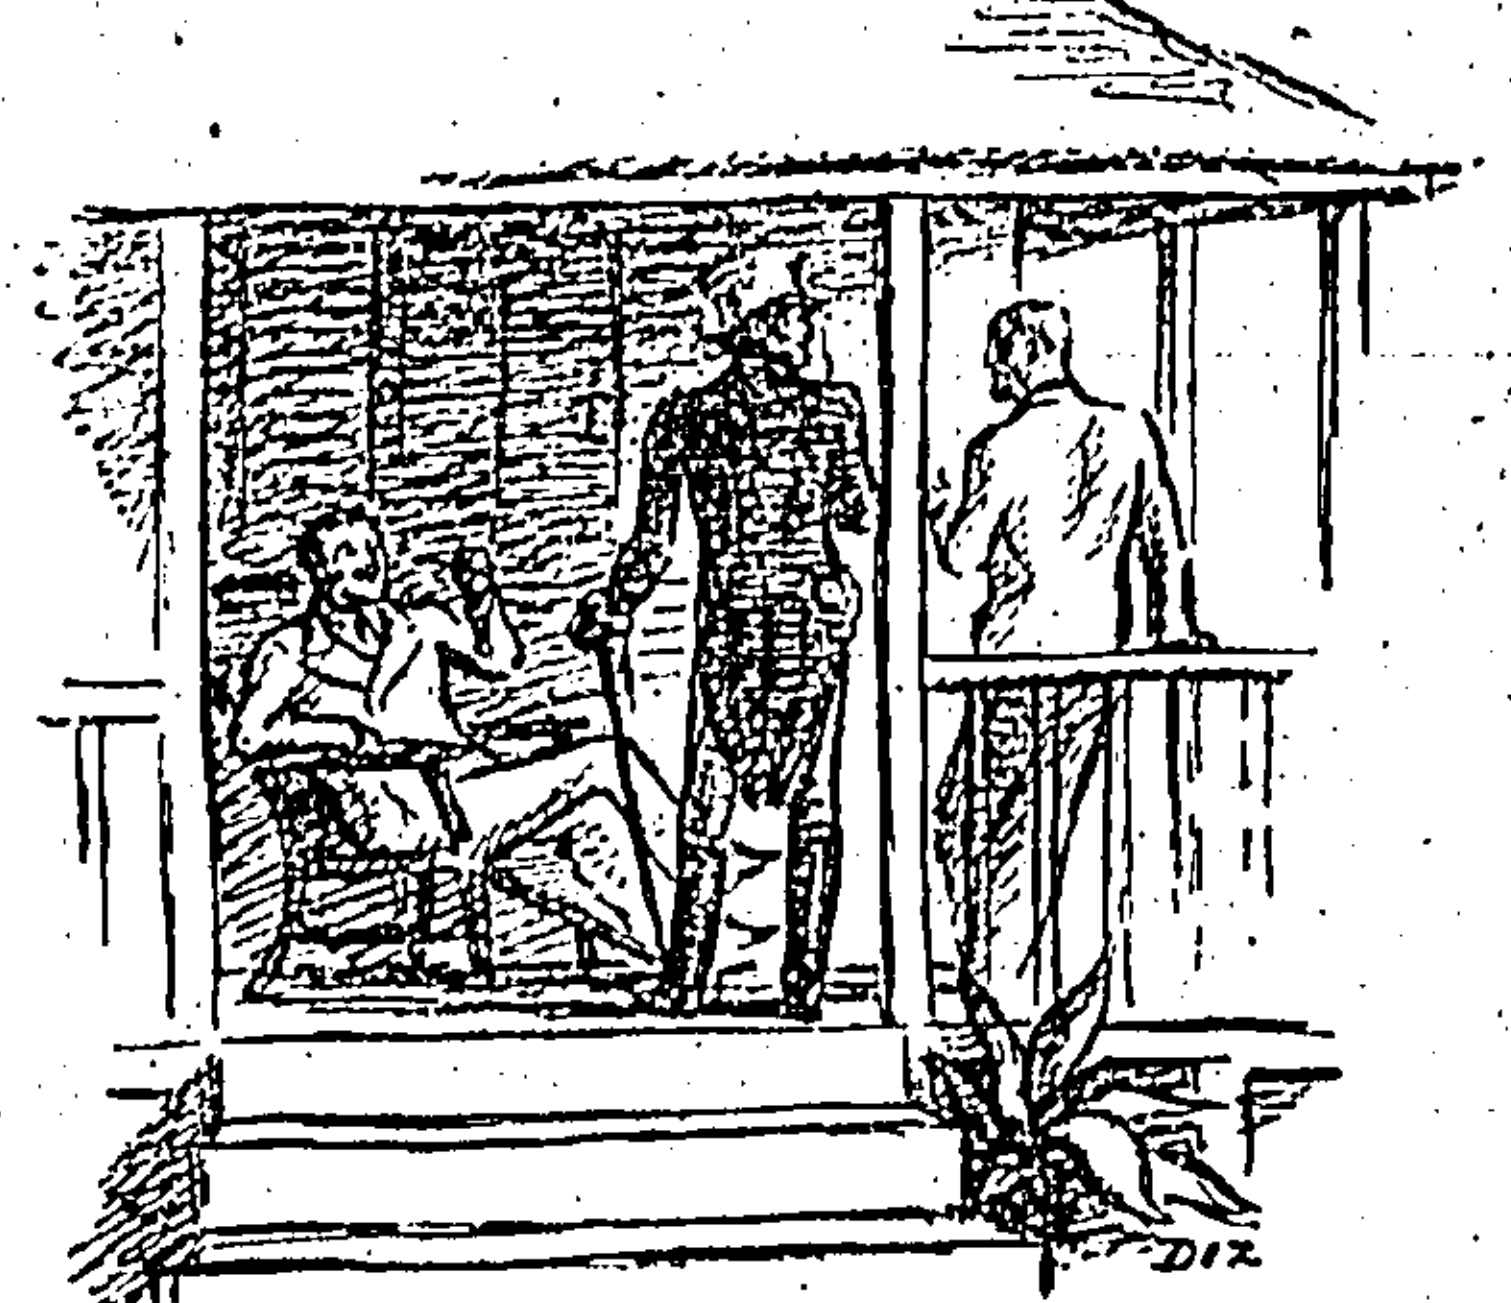

But Herr Collin to-day has to think of the hard-pressed Dutch budget as well as of the probable date of the "next war"—United Press.DOES GERMANY
WANT WAR

British Journalists' Views

Two of the best-known British journalists, Mr. W. N. Ewer, of the Daily Herald, and Mr. Wilson Harris, of The Spectator, recently visited Germany. The results of their visits have been given in a series of articles published by the papers named. As it happens, both men deal with the same subject, viz. "Does Germany want war?"

Mr. Ewer, who is one of the most uncompromising British opponents of Fascism, is honest enough to answer the question in the negative. He says that his endeavours to discover traces of a desire for a war of revenge or conquest have led to nothing. He studied the contents of whole piles of German school-books and arrived at the conclusion that they hardly differed from the English ones.

Mr. Wilson Harris writes in a similar way. He did not meet a single person ascribing warlike intentions to Chancellor Hitler or General Goering. It is scarcely believable, he says, that Germany can contemplate war. Alsace-Lorraine she has given up for good; the Saar—she—hopes—to—regain through the Plebiscite; the question of Eupen and Malmédy can be settled in an amicable way; a ten-year pact has been concluded by Herr Hitler with Poland, and it is getting more and more unlikely that he wants to apply force of arms to the Austrian situation. Moreover, the National Socialist Government requires a certain breathing space—perhaps twenty years or so—in order to complete the internal reconstruction of Germany.

To guess her right:
The white is black,
The dark is light!

She's one of the stars in "Wonder Bar" which opens at the Alhambra on the 22nd September. But the trouble is, the photographer seems to have lost his way in the inner sanctum of the "dark room" and couldn't develop her! So that puts it right up to you. Who is she anyway?

If you haven't guessed already, here's a hint. In her last two pictures, Ricardo Cortez played opposite her. Why, of course! It's Now write her name on a piece of paper. Then write five words (no more) which you think describes her—for example, beautiful, alluring, stunning, "knockout." Then do the same with the pictures which will appear in this paper for the next four days. At the end of the fifth day, send your identifications with the list of adjectives describing each star—all together—to the Management, Alhambra Theatre.

To the ten who get the right names and the most appropriate descriptive lines, will be awarded two tickets each.

Get in the fun by starting now! Watch for to-morrow's picture!

"Wonder Bar" is the internationally famous musical-drama, which was adapted for the screen by Warner Bros. First National, with an all star cast including, Kay Francis, Dick Powell, Ricardo Cortez, Al Jolson, Dolores Del Rio, Guy Kibbee, Hugh Herbert, Louise Fazenda, and Ruth Donnelly. The gigantic musical spectacles, in which 300 beautiful girls appear, were created and staged by Busby Berkeley. The picture is coming to the Alhambra Theatre on 22nd September.

MR. L. P. DE SOUZA AWARDED CERTIFICATE OF HONOUR

His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government, at Government House, Singapore, recently presented a Certificate of Honour to Mr. Lambert Philamon de Souza, who is a brother of Dr. E. L. de Souza, of Hongkong.

Mr. Lambert de Souza was accompanied by Mr. Ho Siak-kuan, M.B.E., C.M., and Dr. H. S. Moonshi, J.P., C.M.

The Hon. Mr. W. S. Ebdon, Commissioner of Land and Chairman, Rural Board, read out the record of service after which His Excellency congratulated Mr. de Souza and expressed the hope that he would long be spared to enjoy the honour.

Mr. de Souza retired as Deputy Collector of Land Revenue on March 31, after completing many years' service, a majority of which time was spent in the Land Office. He is at present Secretary of the Rural Board, Singapore.

Among those present at the presentation were the Hon. Mr. G. L. Ham, Acting Colonial Secretary, the Hon. Mr. J. H. Pedlow, Acting Attorney-General, Mr. W. Bartley, M.B.E., President, Municipal Commissioners, Mrs. L. P. de Souza, Miss Marjorie de Souza, Miss Elaine de Souza, the official and unofficial members and staff of the Rural Board and the senior members of the Land Office staff.

Mr. Lambert de Souza is also the father of Dr. Granville de Souza, former graduate of the Hongkong University.

A UNIVERSAL PICTURE A FRANK BORZAGE Production

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

One of the largest and most spectacular settings ever built for a picture was measured in terms of a thousandth of an inch. This is the great glass and cellophane set in which hundreds of beautiful girls cavort, and famous comedians figure in "Hollywood Town". Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's great musical spectacle opening to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre. The law of optics was the cause. Flanking a great glass staircase in which multi-coloured lights burned were rows of huge glass pillars. Glass reflects light, and light reflected thus into the lens of the camera would have caused "halation" or white light-spots on the film. As a result the camera angles were laid out with microscopic precision, and the pillars then designed so that the light from their facets would reflect no direct light into cameras. The task took hours of tests and calculations. It is in this setting that the great "Hello" number, with the dancing gorilla, the great beauty chorus in cellophane costumes, and the famous African male chorus appear with Jimmy Durante and Jack Pearl, in a complete revue in a single musical number. A total of 1,500 beautiful girls, marvellous settings, gorgeous costumes, great musical numbers by the country's three greatest song-writing teams all-figure in the new picture, hailed as the most glamorous musical ever filmed. It is an entirely new form of entertainment; its musical numbers, the antics of an all-comedian cast, its spectacles and its thrills are all woven into a logical dramatic plot. In the great cast are Laurel & Hardy, Jimmy Durante, Charles Butterworth, Polly Moran, Lupe Velez, Frances Williams, Jack Pearl, Eddie Quillan, June Clyde, George Civot, Richard Carle and Ted Healy and his Stooges.

"Little Man, What Now?" "If a woman sincerely loves a man, she will stick to him through thick and thin, come what may." This is the assertion of Margaret Sullivan, star of Frank Borzage's romantic Universal drama, "Little Man, What Now?" which comes to the King's Theatre on Sunday with Douglass Montgomery in the leading male role. "A wife likes to feel that she is doing her share in facing the world and its fickle fortunes, and that she and her husband are on an equal footing when it comes to making life a success. Nothing is so sure a test of true love as a touch of poverty. These are the ideas which animate the character I play in my latest picture, and they so closely parallel my own that I feel I have put my heart into the role. In the story Douglass Montgomery and I are a young couple undaunted by the cruelties of the world-wide depression because they have youth and each other." The cast supporting Miss Sullivan and Montgomery includes Alan Hale, Hedda Hopper, George Meeker, Sarah Padden, Basil Rosing, Mae Marsh and many other popular screen players.

"The Ninth Guest" "The Ninth Guest," Broadway stage success by Owen Davis, which has sent shivers up the backs of hundreds of New York audiences during the past two years, comes to the screen to-day at the Alhambra Theatre. Columbia studios, capitalizing on the present interest in mystery thrillers, purchased "The Ninth Guest" during its New York run and immediately adapted it to the screen. Columbia is capitalizing on the popularity of the featured roles in the motion picture, while the important supporting cast includes Samuel S. Hinds, Nella Walker, Edwin Maxwell, Edward Ellis, Helen Flint, Vincent Barnett and Sidney Bracey. Roy Wilkins directed.

"Tarzan and His Mate" Youngsters who applaud with delight every time they see a new adventure of "Tarzan" on the screen now discover that mother and father are even more interested in the jungle thrills. This was disclosed by a national survey made during the filming of "Tarzan and His Mate," newest picture based on the Edgar Rice Burroughs' fictional character, with Johnny Weissmuller as the white jungle king and Maureen O'Sullivan in the romantic lead. The picture comes next Thursday to the Queen's Theatre. Newspapers and motion picture houses in all parts of America were requested to give their findings on the public reactions to "Tarzan" on the screen and coloured cartoon strips, and all are lavish in their praise. With this datum at hand, studio officials believe that in making a "Tarzan" picture they are always entering primarily to the adult mind, confident that in so doing they are also including the children within their scope.

"Top Speed" "Top Speed" is merely a relative term, according to Joe E. Brown, star of this lively production which opens to-morrow at the Alhambra Theatre. The picture features a highly exciting speedboat race. The greatest thrill of my life came riding in these speedboats at between 60 and 65 miles an hour," said Brown. "I've travelled 146 miles an hour in an airplane, but you obtain no such sense of speed in the air as you do through the water. It seems at least three times as fast." Mervyn LeRoy directed. Borneo Claire, Jack Whitely, Frank McHugh and Laura Leo are in the cast.

"Springtime For Henry" Their association in making "Springtime For Henry" on the Fox lot was a reunion for Producer Jesse L. Lasky, Otto Kruger, and Nancy Carroll. In intervals between shooting this amusing Broadway hit as a picture, the three were frequently together in "remember when" sessions. Others in "Springtime For Henry", showing now at the King's Theatre, are Nigel Bruce, who played in the original London and Broadway companies, Heather Angel and Herbert Mundin. In the picture the Misses Carroll and Angel try novel ways of making love to Kruger in their battle for his heart. Mundin and Bruce add to the general merriment in this story of a gay, young bachelor's trouble.

COLONY AUDIT

SATISFACTORY ACCOUNTS FOR LAST YEAR

Satisfaction at the manner in which the Government accounts were kept in 1933 is expressed by the Director of Colonial Audit, Mr. P. L. Collinson, in his Annual Report, which was tabled in Legislative Council this week.

Subject to one or two minor comments contained in the report, the Colonial Auditor stated that the accounts generally have been satisfactorily kept and rendered. "Existing regulations," adds the report, "appear to provide reasonable accounting protection against irregularities and fraud."

The embezzlement by a Sheriff employed in the Police Department to which reference was made in the report for 1932, was followed by arrest and conviction. The Secretary of State approved the writing off of a portion of the loss and ordered a further portion to be recovered from certain officers held to be responsible. There still remains $800, at present charged to an Advance Account, upon which the Secretary of State's decision has yet to be obtained.

The theft of a large quantity of explosives belonging to private firms but which were for reasons of public safety kept at the Government Gunpowder Depot has already been reported. Though the theft occurred during the year under review, the financial effect will not be shown until the year 1934.

Periodical surveys of these privately owned stores have now been brought into the Audit Programme. A third theft, on this occasion, of Post Office cash and stamps, occurred during the year and after local enquiry and report the Secretary of State authorised the amount stolen, $1,589.00, to be written off.

Fall in Revenue.

The fall of $2,000,000 in revenue last year is attributed to general trade depression, while the fall in expenditure is stated the report, due partly to actual savings and partly to dollar fluctuations, the Estimates having been framed on a 1s. 2d. basis, although the average rate throughout the year was 1s. 3/10d. thus effecting a saving of over 13 per cent. on sterling commitments, which are a considerable proportion of the Colony's expenditure.

Form of Estimates.

Following the instructions of the Secretary of State, the year 1933 saw the abolition of the "Omnibus" Heads of Personal Emoluments and the salaries of the Cadet Service, the Senior Clerical and Accounting Staff and the Junior Clerical Staff were spread over the various Departmental Heads.

"The initial stages of this transformation inevitably presented difficulties, due mainly to the temporary filling of posts of officers on leave and to promotions within each of the three classes but there is no reason to anticipate that there will be any disappearance of the local authorities get accustomed to the new procedure," states the report.

"It would not seem unreasonable to claim that if each department is reorganised so that normal leave can be met without outside assistance, then Estimates can be prepared with a fair degree of accuracy. If it can be decided that a particular department (including leave provision) requires so many officers of each of the three classes, then any slight excess or deficit due to the salaries of the particular personnel allotted whether temporarily or permanently to that department would not be a difficult matter for adjustment.

"It can at least be claimed that even though there may have been a certain amount of initial difficulty in their preparation the change in form of the Estimates has resulted in a more accurate allocation of expenditure than was formerly the case."

Sirs,
I am an obstetric nurse, and my profession takes me on numerous journeys, which mean long hours in all kinds of weather, and at times I have felt that I could not carry on, but thanks to the wonderful 'ASPRO' Tablets—which I am never without—I have had instant relief from Headaches and Neuritis.

I have nursed four generations, and have always advised my patients to try 'ASPRO' Tablets for complaints too numerous to mention, and all have been loud in their praise for the wonders which 'ASPRO' has done for them.

You may see this testimony in any way you wish, for I am very grateful for the relief which I had from 'ASPRO'

Nerves were in a Terrible Way — 'ASPRO's Surprise

1 Garden Street,
Middle Brighton, S.S.
15/12/32

Dear Sirs,

Last week I had 18 teeth out, and not being well my nerves were in a terrible way; in fact, I had to be taken home from the dentist. I went on for a couple of days in terrible pain with my head and eyes, due to my nerves, so I had to go to a doctor. On my way home I bought a packet of 'ASPRO'. I took three and laid down, and to my surprise I woke up feeling lovely. Now, if I feel a slight headache at all I fly to my 'ASPRO'. I think 'ASPRO' should be in every home. I could mention a few more facts where 'ASPRO' has done good in my home. Once tried, always used.

Yours faithfully,

OUR ASIATIC POLICE

Following our recent comments on the desirability of re-organisation of the Police Force, particularly in respect of the Asiatic contingents, it is of interest to note that provision is made in the Budget for increases in the Indian and Cantonese sections, and a slight reduction in the strength of the Northern Chinese contingent. There is, of course, no connection between our plea and the changes being now made; there could be none, since the burden of our submission was that the total strength of the Asiatic contingents could be considerably reduced and the efficiency of the Force improved rather than otherwise by the employment of a better type of policeman. No explanation is at present forthcoming as to why the number of Shantung men is to be lessened and the Indian and Cantonese contingents strengthened. These may be good reasons for the change, but they should at any rate be made public. On the question of the strength of the Asiatic contingents and the standards of pay prevailing, it will be of interest to the community if we quote a few statistics culled from the Estimates. Altogether, the Colony supports a total of no fewer than 1,540 Asiatic policemen of all ranks, the aggregate estimated pay for whom will next year come to over six lakhs of dollars. The point naturally arises whether we get value for money. Of the total personnel, well over 1,200 are constables, whose total cost works out at over $435,000 per annum. In relation to the number employed, the total cost of pay is low—so low, in fact, as to render anything approaching efficiency or honesty, in the case of the great majority of the men, extremely remote. Taking the Cantonese and Indian contingents, which are by far the largest of the three, we find that there are over 500 constables in the former and over 600 in the latter. A first-class Chinese constable draws pay rising from $26 to $30 a month, the respective figures for the Indians being $31 and $28. The pay of the Shantung constables is on the same basis as that of the Cantonese. How, we ask, can the Colony expect good service and honest conduct on such a scale of pay? Need it be wondered at that "squeeze" is so prevalent in the Asiatic section of the Force, under such conditions? For all intents and purposes, the four

NOTES OF THE DAY

A GREAT SPORTSMAN

To-day, off Rhode Island, two clean-hulled, fresh-rigged racing yachts will sail the first of the series for the America's Cup. British hopes are high and Mr. T.O.M. Sopwith's challenging yacht, Endeavour, is admittedly as fine a craft as experts ever built. She has to compete against Rainbow, as perfect a vessel as the builders of Cup-winning yachts ever achieved. But Endeavour has more than the ordinary task. She has to upset tradition. Never, since the first America won the Cup in August, 1851, has a British challenger triumphed. All the world remembers Sir Thomas Lipton's gallant efforts, the great races his Shamrock sailed. Shamrock I lost to Columbia in 1893; Shamrock II lost to Helianth in 1903; Shamrock IV lost to Resolute in 1920; and Shamrock V, Sir Thomas' last challenger, lost to Enterprise in 1930. The genial Irish sportsman would have tried again, no doubt, had he lived, but it was for Mr. Sopwith to carry on with Endeavour. Whether he wins or loses he will be remembered as a generous rival, for he offered to race both the Rainbow and the Yankee alternately, if the American selectors had difficulty in choosing the defender.

FOUR RACES TO WIN

To take the America's Cup, it is necessary to win four out of seven races. The races will be held on successive days, unless a Sunday intervenes or unless a contestant intimates that he is unable to prepare his craft, in which case a free day is allowed. Each race will be sailed to a finish, even if one of the craft should be disabled. The courses vary in each race, to-day's being fifteen nautical miles to windward and leeward and return to the starting buoy. Thousands will watch the contest, from the decks of specially chartered ocean liners, from seaplanes and motor-boat taxis, from pleasure yachts and catboats; and millions of others will be waiting eagerly for the result. Mr. Cormack, secretary of the New York Yacht Club, has one regret. He says: "I only wish Sir Thomas Lipton could be here to see it."

THE HEART OF ENGLAND

Where is the heart of England? Which is the place most characteristic of its scenery, most typical of its history, most richly laid over with those incrustations of thought and habit that are recognized as distinctively English? This question was lately raised by the Journalist, Mr. Howard Marshall, and there will be found many both to agree and to disagree with his answer. Mr. Marshall's choice was the New Forest, where William the Conqueror fought the battle that gave him the crown of England and brought the country into the full tide of European civilization. But there are probably as many hearts of England as there are classes of people. The tourist, rushing from one beauty spot to another, will most likely select some place like Oxford or Stratford or Cambridge that is at once wealthy in noble associations and immediately appealing in outward loveliness. Those who prefer armchair to Pullmans, and whose favourite means of locomotion are trains of thought, will no doubt choose a district that has been made famous in song and story, such as the Wessex of Thomas Hardy or the Sussex of Rudyard Kipling. Men and women who centre the greatness of England upon its commerce with the high seas find all its essentials in the Port of London, and inhabitants of the industrial areas discover the main significance of England's contribution to the world in their own fiery chimney stacks that give a lurid loveliness to the black skies of night. It is hard to reconcile or to rank these conflicting claims. And then, too, there are the older university cities. These are typical of much that is admirable in Britain, of her enduring vitality and perpetual youth, of her respect for beauty and her comeliness, and of her regard for standards that are not the standards of worldliness.

lakhs of dollars spent on Indian and Chinese constables can be regarded largely as so much wasted money. The same amount devoted to a smaller number of policemen of a better type would without question be productive of better service to the community. If, as is the case, it is being considered necessary in London, where police standards are by no manner of means low, to attract a better-educated type of man to the Force, how much more so is that true of Hongkong? This is an old question, which has periodically cropped up again and again within the past twenty years, but it has always been side-stepped. It will have to be seriously faced and dealt with eventually. Why not now?

MR. PEPYS IN HONGKONG

Sept. 7th.—Awakened again this morning by a heavy fall of rain of which I am glad, as it doth cause the heat to abate somewhat. Reading in the news-sheet as I break my fast I do learn that the Football Club, or its former captain, hath taken steps to provide a scrum half for the future which I do take to be very far-sighted and provident. News of yet a new strike in Amorique and more people killed. And what shall be the end of it I know not. I learn that Mr. N. Coward hath been wrecked upon a desert island in the Mediterranean and hath rung up upon the long distance telephone to say so. And I am somewhat at a stand to explain how this may be, yet I am assured that it is more artistic than losing one's jewellery. Busy at my office and to a preview of a picture and so home to the Clubbe where I fall to writing my mail.

8th.—Again heavy rain wakes me and I am somewhat in dread that it may prevent the playing of the Krickett Trial, but about 9 of the clock it ceases and before I drive to my office the sun is out, and I am minded that all will be well. Yet once more I did essay to leave my office early, but matters of State did prevent, and, as is my wont, I do leave about a quarter before one of the clock. On my way to the Clubbe I do go in to the Telegraph office and there Mr. P. Franklin shows me many photographs that have been sent in locally for the Telegraph competition. And indeed I am at a stand to note how excellent the technique of the entries is. To the Clubbe where I eat my nunchon and later to the Krickett ground where I pass the afternoon very pleasantly watching the tryal game. Dined at the Clubbe where I saw Mr. Povey and did survey our chances at Shanghai, which do seem to be fair. Yet it is a strange thing that all the strong sides we send up are beat, while our weak ones do triumph, as did happen in 1923 and also in 1932. Afterwards I read in my Chamber and so to bed.

9th (Lord's Day).—Lay late and about noon did fall to writing some letters. But I am much shocked to hear of the disaster to the "Morro Castle", this being the second luxury liner to come to a fatal catastrophe in the last few months. And I am minded that in some cases there be less care taken in the vessels that do run upon a regular passage from port to port. After nunchon I did sleep a little and then up the Penke to visit the sick, but Lord! I am much at a stand to find it to be hotter in the Hospital than in my chamber in the Clubbe. Later to the Clubbe upon the Peaks where I do make a four at Contract with my usual fortune, but do choose a man at the dice to buy me a Picnic Bay ticket at his charges, to my great content. And I make small doubt that this shall prove the winning number. Home and early to bed.

10th.—Busy at my office all day and later talking at the Clubbe with certain of the King's shippers' officers who do shake their heads over the Morro Castle news, and say that they doubt not that the enquiry will prove a dirty business. This day comes news of the death of Mr. D. Donnelly, my old friend, and I am grieved to the heart at it. For I did know him these many years, and he was as fine a bowler at Krickett as any that ever I saw, causing the ball to hum in the air with the spin he did put thereon; and this is a thing I have not met in all my days out here besides, save in the case of a Naval minister, a Mr. Hastings. And so the friends of my younger days do pass over one by one. May they rest peacefully.

11th.—A day most fowle with heat and I am right glad the summer draws nigh an end as I am full of lassitude and do begin to loathe my office which is very contrary to my wont. And I confess I do find myself somewhat choleric and opinionastre, which is not as it should be. Reading in the news I see there is much preparation for the continuance of the racing at Happy Valley, and the usual crop of rumours. At Macao upon Sunday last, they did hold a meeting, but the fields are mighty small, and I am in doubt if the sport be worth the trouble and heat of the journey, the shippe, though comfortable enough, being mighty crowded as a rule. The next meeting here is within a sennight or so of us and I do congratulate myself that I shall at any rate lose no money, as I go not, preferring the Krickett if the weather be fair. Yet I doubt not my through billets may come up the better without my presence.

12th.—Upon this day eleven years gone I was married to my wife whose health I and Creed drink very heartily in our morning draught, I saying that if the poor wretch is as satisfied with her bargain as I am with mine, she is a fortunate woman. To this Creed only doth answer "If", and I am in some doubt as to his meaning. A hot day but cooler later, and it is fortunate as I must needs do on my garments of ceremony for a party with yet another couple whose wedding anniversary it be. But when I take out my black breeches from the presse where I had thought them to be safe, I do find to my horror that the moth hath gotten at them, and even with the help of a needle and black cotton I have much ado to make them and myself barely decent. Yet later I do have good fortune at Contract, such as I have not had these many days, and I am minded to keep the moths as pets—such as I have not already slain. A most merrie and pleasant party, and so home somewhat late.

13th.—Again very hot. The news of the Morro Castle doth read like a macabre novel, and I doubt not we have not yet heard the worst. Very busy all day, and in the afternoon I do find to my greatest possible discontent that the typhoon signals are up and it seems like that the storm will come close and at any rate will spoil our week-end. At night, a great and fearsome thunderstorm towards Gap Rock, but so far and high that the thunder is barely heard. Yet I close my shutters against the rain, and so to bed.

"I got a swell idea for you. Draw a big, hunky truck driver ordering an ice cream cone."

BULLS AND INNERS

From the Office Butts

The Government is, we notice, spending lots of money to make good damage by white ants. As yet, however, there's no indication of the extent of harm done officially by dry rot.

A visitor to the Colony praises the Colony's system of arming the police. He evidently believes in the utmost trigger of the law.

A young man has invented an instrument which is a combination of the tenor saxophone and the bagpipes. He should go far—and not come back.

An old resident thinks that some of Hongkong's troubles are due to foolish and excessive spending. By people with more dollars than cents?

Carpentering has become quite a popular occupation with women in England. What's the betting they don't use red nails?

Speaking about red nails, we notice that outfits are now sold for "beautifying and tinting cars." We trust that they are boxed.

H. G. Wells has finished the scenario for his first film, "The Shape of Things to Come." And just after there's been so much fuss about Mae West pictures, too!

Scientists have just hit upon a chemical which will dissolve fog. Might come in handy for Peakites whose minds are in a continual haze.

According to a fashion writer, blondes are disappearing. Some of 'em with other people's husbands!

A society woman in America has secured a divorce because her husband kicked her in the shins during a bridge game. The system seems to have worked.

It's claimed that married teachers are better than unmarried ones. Well, they have someone to try their ideas on at home.

A Paris fashion note says autumn hats will be conical. And also conical, for that matter.

The latest kind of contract bridge eliminates the dummy. But it still permits your partner to play.

The saliva test was recently employed to discover whether a racehorse had been doped. An easier way would have been to back it for a win.

"Girls to-day are very nice," says a 100-year-old woman, "but they ought to wear more clothes." Then how could we tell they're nice?

Blazers are now being made out of billiard cloth. Very cue-t!

It is said that women's hair will be cut shorter than ever. Shear Nonsense.

Monograms cut in crystal are the latest craze. The difficulty is the initial expense.

It is claimed that good money can be made out of bee-breeding. We should hate risking being stung.

We overheard a lady on the Peak Tram complain that her husband could talk about nothing but ponies. Nagging?

There seems to be a possibility of the harbour tunnel again being discussed. What a bore!

"RASTUS"—We do not know why black cats are considered to be lucky, unless it's because they are so hard to hit in the dark.

A protest has been made at Margate against the large number of tents for hire on the beach. They should see Sheld-O.

Smart Street Frocks for September

These early autumn dresses have a tailored note and they are pleasantly cool
without being too summery

THE LACE EVENING
dress in deep gold with the perennially popular separate jacket, shown above, is appropriate for late summer and early fall nights. Note the loose sleeves with dramatically wide elbow-length cuffs and the flare of the skirt from the hips.

THE new clothes for those first autumn days have a casually tailored, non-chalant look about them.
They're sure to find favour with the woman who takes her between-seasons wardrobe rather seriously.

The girl who has been away for her summer holidays will discover that her linens, cottons and washable silks are entirely out of the fashion picture. So, dabbing a bit of makeup on her suntanned skin, she hurries to the shops to see what can be found in the way of a smart street dress that won't look too summery and yet will be cool enough to make September's weather bearable.
If she's a wise little shopper, she'll head straight for the "dark silk dresses" department.

There, to her heart's delight, she'll find navy blue, black, brown and dark green dresses which fill the bill.
She may like the tunics—they're good this year—or the peplum models which give a one-piece frock that popular two-piece look.

Coat dresses are always in good taste but the girl who finds these extremely tailored types too severe for her can go in for the more feminine creations. Perhaps the capelet collars or the high pleated and frilled collars will flatter her.

Alpaca is an ideal fabric to choose for the first dark dress. It is light in weight, yet tailors perfectly and has the marked advantage that it is practically uncrushable.

There are silk crepes, too, that look like novelty woollens but are much cooler to wear. You will find these materials made into dresses with trim, slender lines, depending on an unusual scarf, decorative buttons or perhaps narrow white ruchings at the neck and cuffs for their distinction—and distinctive they are.

Once the street dress problem is out of the way, the smart woman goes on to the evening gown department and selects something to take the place of her sheer organdies, plaid gingham and vaporous nets and to wear until it's cool enough to consider velvet, satin and heavy crepe. Lace is the answer. It's having quite a wave of popularity both in Paris and New York, and certainly is just the fabric for dinner and dancing at this time of year.

When an evening gown and a street dress have been purchased, a woman can sit back and relax until it's time to buy an autumn suit and some frocks to wear under a lightweight coat.

Three-piece boucle suits are becoming to the older woman and she, as well as the younger girl, will love the new shades of brown, tawny orange, yellow, dark green and bright red.

THIS BLACK dress in lightweight crepe is trimmed with a berthalike collar, ribbed in satin. It's dressy enough for luncheons and teas,
but is also quite correct
for street wear.

HERE'S ANOTHER
three-piece boucle ensemble that is particularly flattering to the mature figure. It consists of skirt, jacket with wide, scalloped revers and a white blouse.

THE THREE-PIECE
boucle suit in a brown tweedy mixture, at the right, is perfect for country, week-ends, and dates on for football games. It includes a slimly tailored skirt, open-down-the-front jacket and a sweater blouse.

gay outfit consisting of a buttoned-down-the-front skirt of brown flannel worn with bright yellow cashmere sweaters.

Fairy Queen of the Belgians

(By ROSETTE HARGROVE).

Once upon a time . . . The story of Astrid, Queen of the Belgians, begins that way. Just like a fairy tale.

But this princess was not brought up in a palace. She lived in a medium-sized house, in a place called Djurgården, near Stockholm, surrounded by the loving care of a beloved father and mother. She learned all the things that little girls—even princesses—are supposed to learn. Also, since she was Swedish, she learned very young to ski and toboggan. And when it came time for her to go to a university, she chose to follow courses in housewifery and concentrated on child welfare, little dreaming that before she reached the age of 30, she would be the wife of a reigning King—and the mother of his three children.

BEGINNING OF ROMANCE.

One day, when Princess Astrid had just reached her twentieth birthday, her uncle, the King of Sweden, told her he had invited a charming young man, Count de Røth, to come and spend some time at the palace. Astrid pouted and wondered who this stranger was, and what he would be like.

Actually the young Count de Røth was even more secretive than Astrid's uncle in handling this courtship. If the King of Sweden disguised the fact that the Count was actually heir-apparent to the throne of Belgium, the young man was even less anxious to attract attention. So he travelled in third-class railway carriages to Stockholm—and carried his own baggage. It was a great emotional experience for both of them. The understanding they had of one another was evident from the start. So was the ardent devotion of the young "Count."

WON HEARTS OF BELGAINS.

Royal love matches are sufficiently rare to attract the sympathy of people the world over. From the moment Astrid set foot upon Belgian soil, she found her way into the hearts of her husband's people. The regal newly-weds immediately went to live in an eight-roomed house in the vast grounds of Laeken castle. A year after their marriage, a daughter, Princess Josephine Charlotte, was born, and five years later, a son, Prince Baudoin, now Crown Prince. And the birth of their second son, Albert, just the other day, was greeted just as happily by the Belgian people as by the fond parents.

Now that the untimely death of her royal father-in-law, Albert, has made her a queen, Astrid's simple upbringing still is reflected in her whole mode of life. Belgians still recount with pride how, when she was Crown Princess, she would watch parades, not from a privileged place, but as she mingled with the crowd. Later, when little Princess Josephine Charlotte was born, she would often be seen wheeling the perambulator, the nurse walking alongside, just as simply as any adoring middle-class mother. She would always respond to the passer-by's bow with a smile, and man or woman would go on their way glowing at the graciousness of their Princess.

BUYS OWN CLOTHES.

Life at Stuyvenberg—the name of the house to which Leopold brought his young bride, and where they have elected to go on living—is reduced to its simplest expression. The furnishings are by no means lavish, merely comfortable.

CHINA BUILDING QUEEN'S ROAD CENTRAL.

The ground floor comprises a large and a smaller drawing-room, a fairly spacious dining-room, another smaller so-called breakfast-room and a flower-room.

The nurseries occupy the most favoured position in the house, flooded with air and light, the Queen being an authority on puericulture. She supervises her babies' meals, their general hygiene, their daily routine very closely. She herself buys their clothes. All the time she can spare, she spends with them. Her boudoir, on the first floor, overlooks the extensive lawn where the children play.

The Queen often goes into the kitchen to make some special delicacy. There is no complicated table service, no importunate footmen hovering in the background. Each course simply is brought in and set down. The Queen makes a point of seeing that everyone is well served.

The Queen will not allow anyone to cut her flowers for the table and the rooms. She does this herself, arranging them in her flower-room, assisted or not by the lady-in-waiting on duty that week. As Crown Princess, she had two ladies-in-waiting attached to her person, neither of whom lived on the premises, as the house was not large enough to hold them. Her personal maid is a Swedish girl.

A governess and a nurse, both middle-class Flemish, are attached to the children.

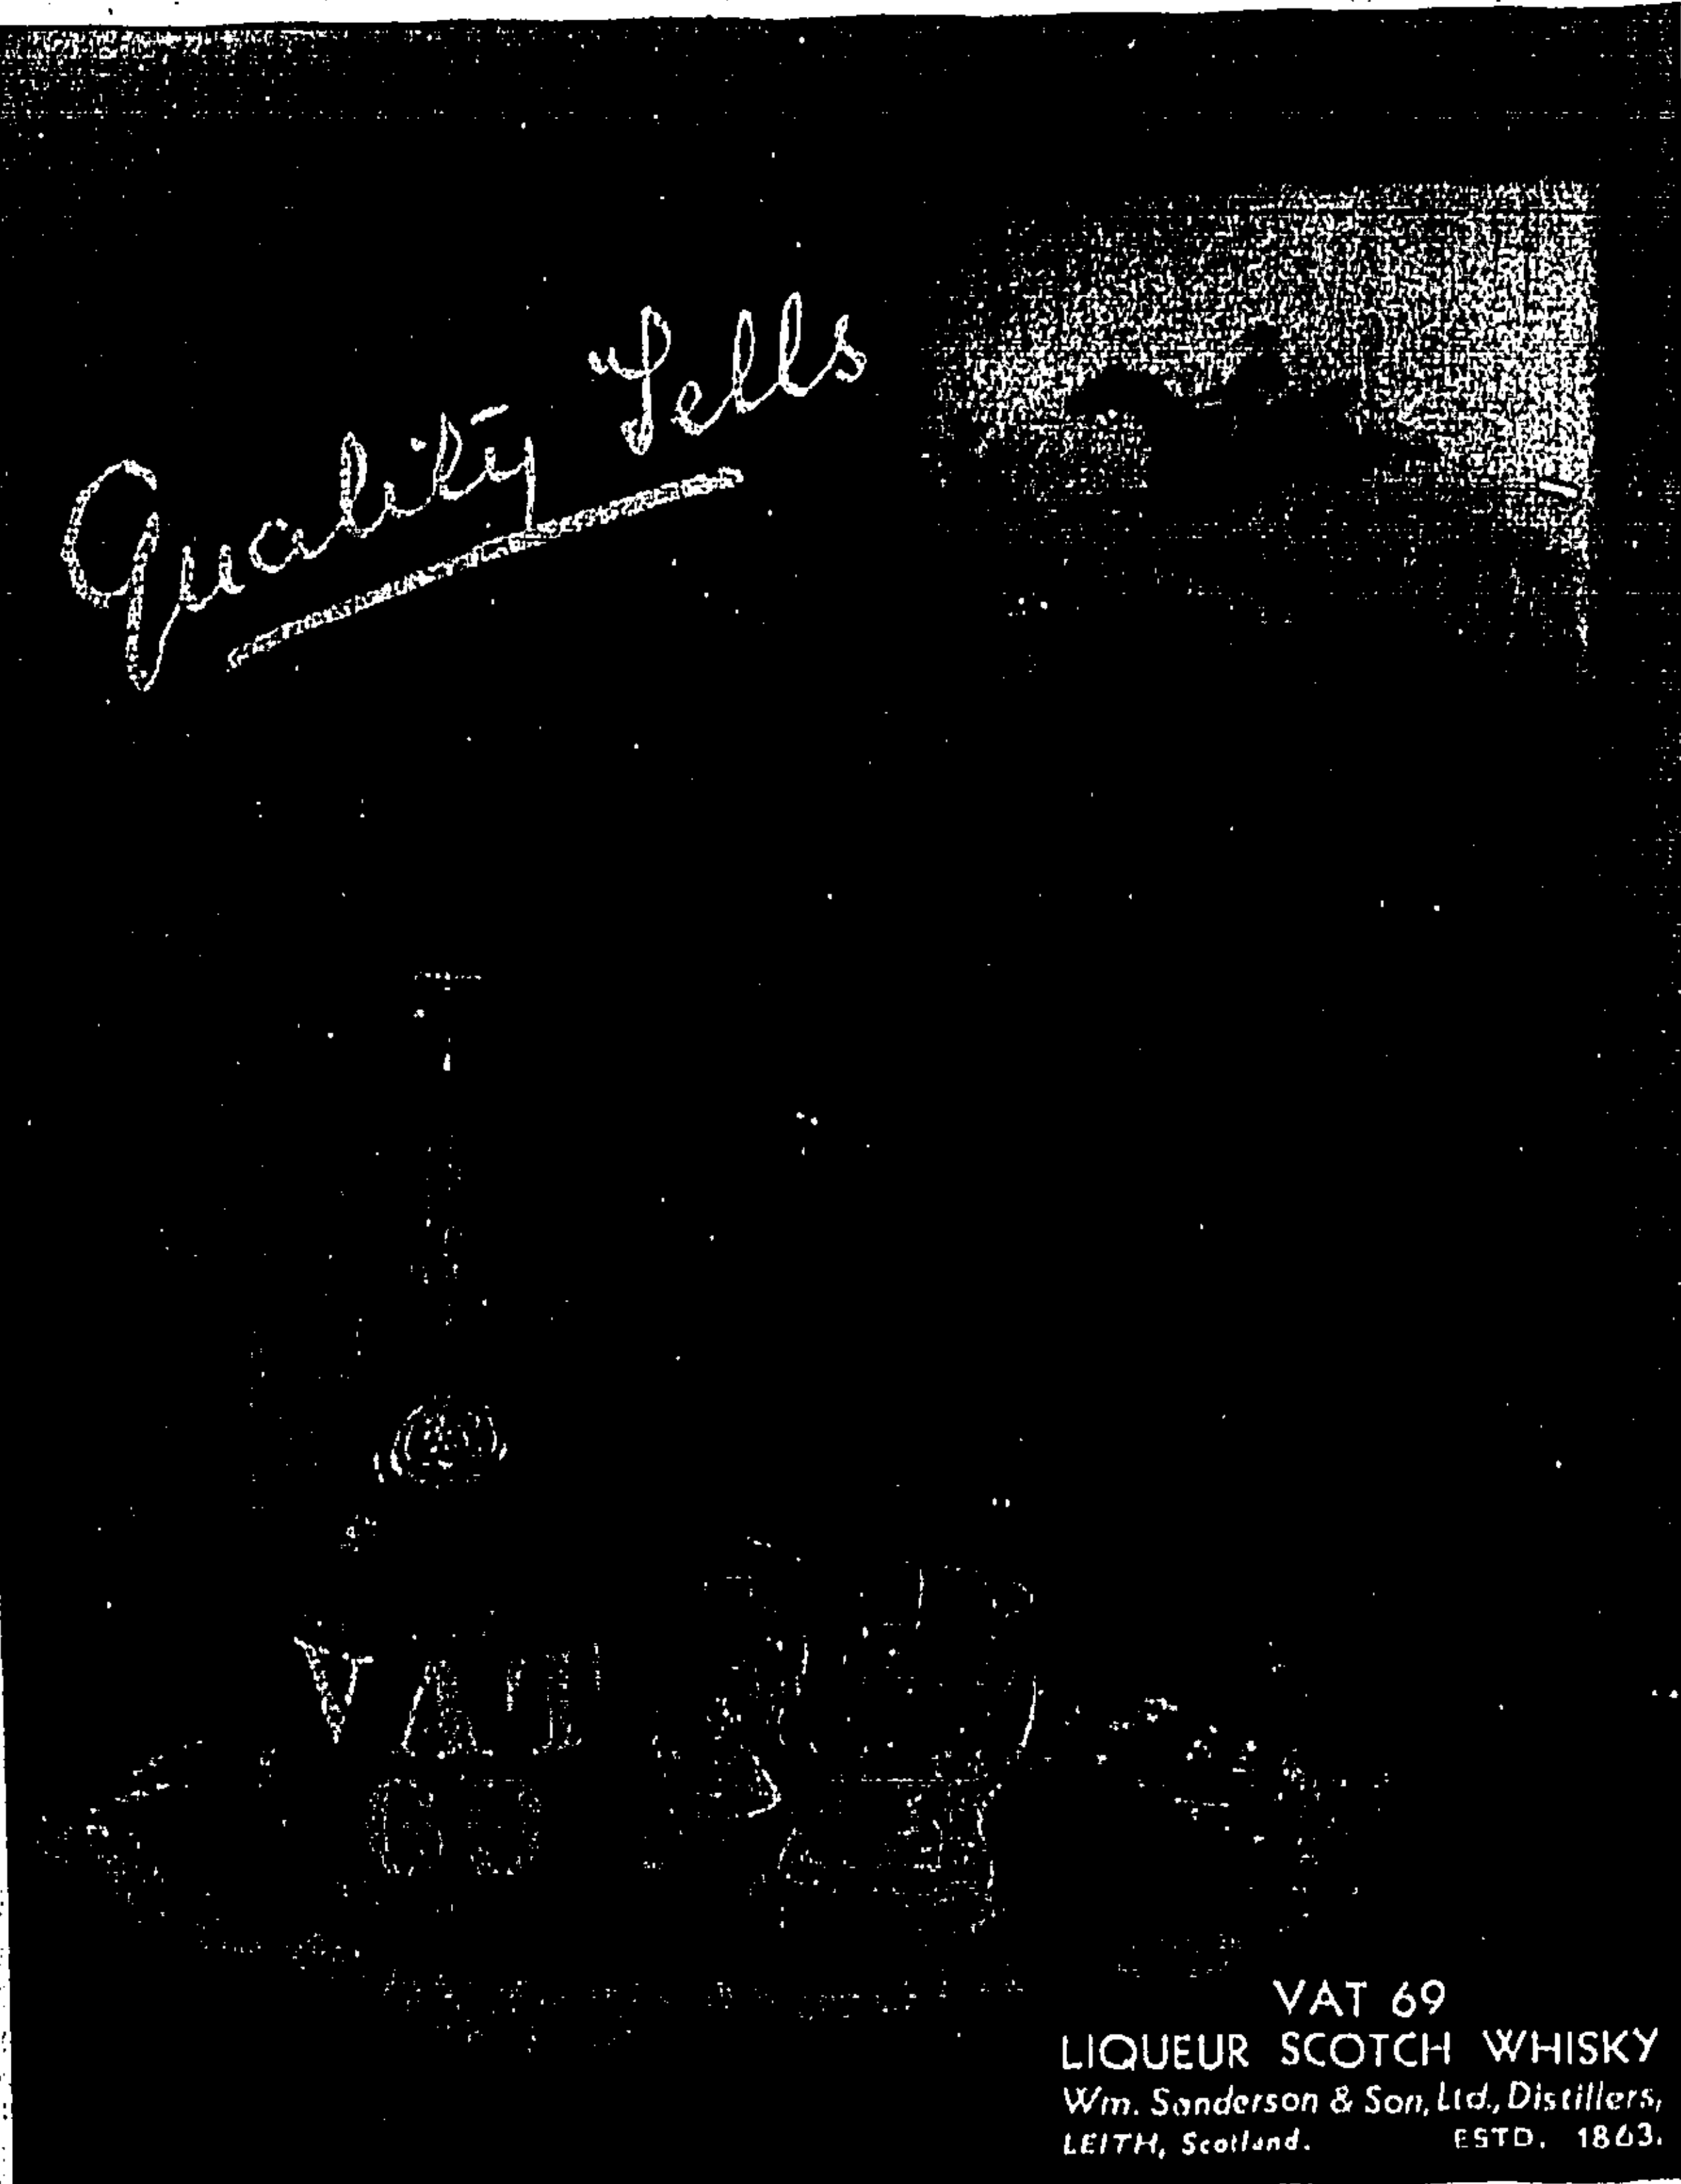

HAS EYE FOR VALUES.

The Queen is an excellent swimmer and tennis player. She has a driving license, but does not ride or play golf. She is very feminine and loves pretty clothes, but is not extravagant. She divides her favours impartially among the tradesmen of the city, patronizing the department store just as well as the exclusive couturier. She prefers tailored clothes—the type that well-dressed Englishwomen wear—to anything fussy or elaborate. The Queen of the Belgians is not a rich woman and therefore prices are a serious matter. She invariably inquires how much the thing costs. If she thinks it too expensive, she just forgets about it.

PATRONIZES HAIRDRESSER.

Instead of calling her Coiffeur out to Stuyvenberg, she democratically and simply goes to his hair-dressing salon on the Avenue Louise and does not expect any more attention than the average good client. Queen Astrid uses little make-up. Her clear complexion makes it unnecessary. She wears her thick, brown hair parted in the centre and gently waved.

THE AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHER

NOTES BY "EFTOO"

That the 1934 Telegraph Competition was an outstanding success, is agreed on all sides. Of particular interest is the fact that several prizes were awarded to members of the Hongkong International Photographic Society. I mention this, not because I consider the Club can claim any of the credit, but because intending members, particularly beginners, will have the benefit of the knowledge and experience of these prize-winners, when the Club's premises are established, and regular demonstrations given.

A point that struck me particularly was the poor quality of quite a large percentage of prints. There is no doubt that bromide paper is the most popular printing medium amongst serious photographers to-day. The use of small cameras, to say nothing of the fine range of bromide papers available, is the main reason for this. It can hold its own with the best that can be secured by any printing method.

The perfect print is one that is of good colour, has a long scale of gradation, in which no part is of the subject is represented by white paper, and no part black silver with no suggestion of detail. Such a print is the result of first choosing a paper which will exactly suit the character of the negative, which has been exposed, developed and fixed in the proper manner.

CHOICE OF PAPER.

You must choose a paper of correct grade or contrast. An extremely wide range of bromide papers is available at the local dealers. Not only are there variations in contrast, but also in surface, size and base.

A negative of the delicate type, whether perforce or from exposure, will invariably need to be printed on a contrasting paper; whilst a soft grade will be found more suitable when the negative is full of contrast. The best results are, of course, obtained by trial or error; a couple of packets of paper and half-an-hour's work will prove more than a couple of columns of print.

THE DEVELOPMENT.

A correct method can be described as giving that amount of exposure which will permit the print to develop to finality. In other words, the print will obtain its desired depths, and after about two minutes' immersion in the developer, the action will not proceed further. We in Hongkong are up against the temperature difficulty, during our summer months.

When working with a solution at about 85 deg., I would say expose your paper for sufficient time to permit of immersion in the developer the good attained tones, for not more than 70 seconds. A great fault also is overworking the developer. Chemicals are quite cheap, and ten ounces of working strength solution should be used for development of not more than 6-8 x 10 enlargements.

FIXING.

This is a simple operation, yet it is possible that prints of poor quality and doubtful permanence may result through lack of attention to fixing. It is customary to use an acid fixing bath, and as this keeps clear, and appears to work well, there is no small risk of using the bath in an exhausted condition. Ten minutes in a fresh bath should be sufficient, but washing must be thorough.

Proper treatment during various operations will ensure that bromide prints are reasonably permanent. This is especially the case with regard to fixing and washing.

A first-class bromide print is an exceedingly beautiful thing; a bad print of weak contrast, poor colour, veiled by fog, is one of the worst products of photography. Further, now that the bromide process is largely used as a starting-off point for carbon or bromoil, the question of quality is particularly important.

Any photographic queries can be sent to the Hon. Secretary, Hongkong International Photographic Society (Mr. S.B. Tan) whose address is now c/o The Asia Life Insurance Co., Queen's Road.

'SPRINGTIME FOR HENRY' AT THE KING'S

POLAND'S STAND

LEAGUE SUPERVISION OF MINORITIES

London, Sept. 14. At the League of Nations Assembly meeting this morning, the announcement made by Poland; through the Foreign Secretary Dr. Beck, that Poland refuses any longer to co-operate with international organisations, which is taken to include organs of the League of Nations in the matter of the supervision over the application in Poland of the system of minority protection, was discussed.

The declaration created a profound sensation in the Assembly yesterday where the general impression was that the unilateral denunciation of the Treaty had taken place.

An early speaker at to-day's meeting was the British Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon. He recalled that Poland had signed the Minorities Treaty and had agreed to Article 93 of the Treaty of Versailles. Poland had accepted certain procedure regarding minorities. It was clear that it should not be possible for any State by unilateral action to relieve herself of her obligations, and he wanted to put that on record as the view of the British Government.

British Comment.

Poland's action has provoked some comment in British newspapers. The Daily Herald, while agreeing that it is hard to justify a system of supervision in respect of only a small group of States, only characterises the action as reprehensible, in so far as it strikes a blow at the sanctity of treaties and the authority of the League. It urges that a serious attempt to make protection of minorities universal, however, might well be undertaken.

The Morning Post says the arguments adduced by Poland to justify release from the Treaty are not without some weight, but universal repudiation of a solemn covenant cannot but arouse some misgiving. The Daily Telegraph says the demand that minorities question should be dealt with on a uniform basis for all alike has a very reasonable and sound argument, but the fact is that when the Allied Powers in 1919 set about creating a new Poland there was no way of doing so without including large numbers of Russians, Ukrainians, Germans and millions of Jews.

The New Poland.

The Poles themselves had for generations suffered so severely that the Allied Powers felt constrained to make certain stipulations. These were that the new Poland should not prosecute a policy of assimilation by means of political persecution, and should allow minorities freedom of conscience, language and faith. Poland, and other states which received territories containing large minorities, agreed to their being placed under the guarantee of the League.

The Telegraph regards Poland's action as only too typical of an impatient spirit, and believes that the suggested world convention would almost certainly disagree from the start, or if it agreed on a uniform basis, it would be more honoured in the breach than in observance.—British Wireless.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

HAVE YOU NOT LOVE ENOUGH TO HEAR WITH ME, WHEN THAT RASH HUMOUR WHICH MY MOTHER GAVE ME MAKES ME FORGETFUL?—Shakespeare.

A woman, Kwan Yan, 61, was admitted to the Government Civil Hospital yesterday with injuries caused by her being knocked down by a car, No. 1456, in Stubbs Road.

Ng Kwan, an amah, was bitten yesterday by a dog belonging to Sergeant-Major Sanders, R.A.O.C. at Queen's Road East. She was taken to the Government Civil Hospital for treatment.

Observatory returns for August show that the average mean temperature was 80.6. The highest was 91.5 and the lowest 72.8. There were 181.9 hours of sunshine and 24.39 inches of rain, while the average humidity was 88.

CHINA'S APPEAL

URGES LEAGUE TO BACK COVENANT

Geneva, Sept. 14.

Mr. Quo Tai-chi, China's Minister to London and chief delegate to the League of Nations, to-day drew the attention of the League Assembly to three principal points.

One, he said, was the whole Far Eastern issue which still remained open. The fact that a puppet had been appointed by alien taskmasters to do their bidding in China's North-Eastern provinces, a man who called himself an emperor, does not alter the character of the breaking of the Covenant by military occupation, which China endures only while she must.

The whole of the League has passed final judgment on that occupation, and remains bound by its judgment. Since the Assembly adopted the unanimous report of February 21, 1933, China has unwaveringly observed the obligations contained in its finding, and has hoped that the recommendations of the Report would be enforceable without delay. Particularly on the question of non-recognition China's attitude remained adamant. All States and members of the League, and others concurring in principle, should stand by it.

Covenant Breach.

One remote State has indeed officially, though obscurely, recognized the illegal organisation in North-East China. From China's standpoint, and as a member of the League, she considers such an action inconsistent with the League Covenant, and it was a matter for the League to review and inflict the necessary discipline.

This isolated instance, though practically negligible, was, however, theoretically serious, Mr. Quo asserted.

Of late, persistent attempts have been made to frighten the States bound by the Assembly Report, through threatening them with economic penalties and troubles for their consuls in Manchuria if they do not recognize the illegal regime in that part of China. Also, efforts have been made to bribe them with specious offers of special economic advantages if they will succumb.

Continuing Responsibility.

Mr. Quo Tai-chi said that the second point he wished to make was that the League has a continuing responsibility in the matter. This responsibility was growing continually heavier with the increasing tension and menace to peace in the Far East.

It cannot be affected by the refusal of any State to attend Geneva, he said.

The third and most important point, Mr. Quo said, is the spreading consequences to the whole world of the continuance of treaty breaking and aggression in the Far East. Far from having improved, the situation to-day has drifted further away from what the League expected and decided as regards it.

Manchuria to-day still presents the essentials of the same picture as when the occupation first started, namely a Japanese army on active service, holding many cities and railways while endeavouring to cow the population by incessant punitive expeditions.

The impending entry of the Soviet Union to the League and the ever closer co-operation with the League of the United States may be ascribed, partly at least, to the impact of events in the Far East.

World's Storm Centre.

The Pacific was becoming the world's storm centre. Unhappily, there was no doubt at all that the continued occupation of China's North-eastern provinces already constituted the most urgent danger to the world of another Great War.

The danger of war in the Far East was closely and inseparably linked with the peace of Europe. Therefore, China warmly welcomes the prospects of Russia's immediate entry into the League. Russia's collaborative labours at the Disarmament Conference were a happy augury of her influence. She had contributed the most clear and acute definition of an aggressor.

"We have a common interest in the preservation of peace in the Far East and the Pacific, and we will be glad that from now on our joint efforts for peace can be collaborated in the framework of the League," Mr. Quo concluded.

Down-Trodden Subjects

Geneva, Sept. 14.

Mr. Quo Tai-chi, speaking at the League Assembly, astonished his listeners when he asserted that the down-trodden Manchurian population had burned down the palace of the "so-called puppet emperor" and set fire to one of the biggest Japanese aerodromes, just outside Changchun, with the loss of many millions of yen.

"Apparently this is guerilla warfare on a widespread scale, which the Japanese give the convenient name of banditry, but which are movements of protest and resistance by the down-trodden citizens against enormous illegal oppressions," Mr. Quo said.

"The action is in line with the fine tradition of causes that never conceived themselves hopeless; and they will keep up the sporadic war-

BLUE POOL ROAD

NEW HIGHWAY IS NEARING COMPLETION

Development of Wongneichong Valley as a residential district has reached another stage, with the approaching completion of Blue Pool Road, the new motor road running from the side of the Dragon Motor Car Garage, in Wongneichong Road, past the old Blue Pool.

The new road is almost completed, and requires only to be surfaced with tarmacadam before being thrown open for traffic.

A novel feature of Blue Pool Road is that it has a specially constructed pony track of six feet width on the left hand side. Riders can obtain a fine view of the valley and can be certain of not interfering with motor or pedestrian traffic.

The motor road itself has a width of 16 feet, and is wide enough for two large cars to pass with plenty of room to spare.

The road-engineers have not forgotten pedestrian traffic. A footpath, five feet wide, runs on the right of the motor road.

Although the west side of Wongneichong Valley has greatly developed as a residential area in recent years, the east side development is inferior—village and tenements. Now that Blue Pool Road is nearing completion, it is possible that a better class of building will be erected.

fare until the opportunity arises for their final deliverance to China," he asserted.

"The continued military occupation of our North-eastern provinces already constitutes the most urgent danger in the world, and to peace of the Far East. The danger of war in the Far East is closely and inseparably linked with the prospect of peace in Europe," Mr. Quo said.—United Press.

Try this free 10-day beauty treatment for your teeth

Pepsodent Tooth Paste contains a special cleansing and polishing material that removes film quickly . . . safely

DON'T miss this opportunity to get a free ten-day tube of Pepsodent Tooth Paste
—a ten-day beauty treatment for your teeth.
After using Pepsodent only a short time you can begin to see the difference in the appearance of your teeth. Instead of ugly film-stains, you will see the smooth, bright enamel surfaces of your teeth.
Removing film is the only way to bring out the natural beauty of your teeth. Film forms constantly and resists ordinary ways of brushing. That is why you should use

Pepsodent—the special film-removing tooth paste. Its new cleansing and polishing material enables it to erase film-stains quickly, safely, and effectively.
Some tooth pastes remove film with materials so hard that they scratch tooth enamel. The new material in Pepsodent is twice as soft as that ordinarily used in tooth pastes. Yet it is unsurpassed in removing film and giving a brilliant polish to your teeth.
Use Pepsodent twice a day—see your dentist at least twice a year.

ARMS INQUIRY

CHINA AGAIN IN LINE OF FIRE

Washington, Sept. 14.

Evidence alleging that China had diverted the proceeds of a $10,000,000 loan made by the United States in 1931, and intended to enable China to buy American wheat, to the purchase of guns and aircraft from the United States, was to-day given before the Senate Arms Inquiry.

The Chairman of the Inquiry, Senator Nye, revealed the existence of this evidence in an interview; but did not state the name of the firm from which the munitions were purchased.

He stated, however, that a committee was at present engaged in studying the evidence.

In addition to this loan, a further $20,000,000, lent to China to buy cotton, bolster up American trade, relieve American surpluses of grain and help China to feed her hungry millions, Japanese official circles contended, was actually converted from a wheat into a munition loan later, Senator Nye declared.—Router.

SAFE ARRIVAL

KIDNAPPED AMERICAN ARRIVES IN MUKDEN

Mukden, Sept. 14.

Solomon Zetlin, the American furrier who was kidnapped by bandits in Mukden on August 21 and was subsequently released, reached the headquarters of the Japanese gendarmes here at 5.03

INTERPORT BOWLERS BACK

VERY UNLUCKY TEAM

S'HAIS LAVISH ENTERTAINMENT

(By "Veritas").

The Hongkong lawn bowls Interport team returned from Shanghai yesterday, and apart from vociferous praises for the hospitality of their hosts, were diplomatically reticent concerning the visit.

One heard vague whispers prior to, and after boarding the Empress of Japan yesterday afternoon, but they remained vague whispers, and possibly this is just as well.

One thing the players in general emphatically claimed was that they did not enjoy the best of luck in the second and third games against Shanghai. On the other hand there was no denying their inferiority to Shanghai in the first match.

Mr. U. M. Omar, the skip, admitted to me that he played well below form when the first Interport was continued after the rain. On the first ten heads Hongkong easily held their own, and he felt that had the match been played straight through Hongkong would have won it.

But on the following day the went to pieces, and that was that. In the second and third encounters Hongkong appear to have been definitely unlucky in losing. As a rink they played equally as well as Shanghai, but the balance just went against them.

COATES SPLENDID.

Coates played magnificently as No. 1 in all games, being particularly prominent against Hankow. On the whole, however, the players felt a little disappointed with their form. The fiery green in the first match was undoubtedly a big contributing factor to the instability of the Hongkong rink.

Omar was especially affected and could not find his length to the draw.

On the social side Shanghai surpassed themselves as hosts. "We were too well entertained" expressed one member of the Hongkong team.

On the other hand the players were a little bit hurt in being denied the privilege of rolling up on the morning of the Interport games. The courtesy had previously been extended to visiting Interport teams and was reciprocated in Hongkong last year.

The Hongkong team in no way deny the merits of Shanghai's victory, but feel that at least they cannot be accused of disgracing themselves. It can be fairly claimed that in the second and third games Hongkong played equally as well as the winners, and this is further demonstrated by their brilliant win against Hankow, who had previously outplayed another Shanghai rink on three occasions.

STIMULUS FOR PROJECT

SPALDING, BROS' GENEROSITY

REV. J. R. HIGGS' INTEREST

(By "Veritas").

Further stimulus to the project for inaugurating a badminton league in Hongkong this winter has been given through a generous offer by Messrs. Spalding and Co., who are prepared to put up a trophy for such a league.

The offer was officially made yesterday morning, and if the meeting next Friday decides to form a league, it will, of course, be accepted with keen appreciation.

The Rev. J. R. Higgs, Vicar of St. Andrew's Church, who is a keen badminton player and a gentleman who is warmly interested in the development of the game in the Colony, has kindly agreed to preside at the meeting next week.

In view of this, and the other encouragements given, it is to be hoped that badminton clubs will give the proposal full support.

Clubs already in existence, as well as prospective clubs, are cordially invited to send two delegates to Friday's meeting, which is being held in the S. C. M. Post Board Room.

Although it is impossible definitely to state now what composition the league will take if formed, it is probable that suggestions will be made to create at least men's doubles, ladies' doubles and mixed doubles sections.

Furthermore, once the game has been put on a sound basis in the Colony, it will be easy to organise championships, etc.

Amateur Golf Finalists

Brooklyn, N.Y., Sept. 14. W. Lawson Little, leading amateur golfer of 1934, and David Goldman will contest the final of the American Amateur Golf championship over 36 holes as a result of to-day's semi-final matches.

Lawson Little beat Armstrong 4 and 3, and Goldman defeated Reynold Smith 4 and 2.

At the end of the first 18 holes, Little led Armstrong by two up, while Goldman was one up on Smith.

The final will be played off tomorrow.—Reuter.

Cricket Season Now Ending

AUSTRALIANS' EASY WIN

London, Sept. 14. The English cricket season is nearly over. To-day the Australians completed their tour, and at the Oval the Champions v. Rest match was started.

Meeting the North of Scotland at Forres, the Australians won by an innings and 28 runs.

On a bowler's wicket, Peebles took 5 for 84 when the Australians batted and were dismissed for 166, but North of Scotland fared even more miserably, being sent back for totals of 48 and 98.

DUCKWORTH'S INNINGS.

George Duckworth, famous Lancashire wicket-keeper was the hero of Lancashire's first innings against the Rest to-day.

He hit up 69 in a total of 206. The Yorkshire bowlers, Bowsen and Verity, were again in great form, Bowsen taking 4 for 73 and Verity 4 for 60.

The Rest placed themselves in a sound position before close of play by scoring 75 without loss. Of these C. F. Walters hit up 61.—Reuter.

SHANGHAI TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

Khoo And Carson Meet In Singles Final

SENSATIONAL ROPER CUP RESULT

Shanghai, Sept. 9. On the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association's court, yesterday, L. D. Carson met H. Madar and Khoo Hooi-hy played Guy Cheung in the semi-finals of the senior singles championship. The doubles match between M. Benavitch and W. H. Duff, playing for England for the Roper International Cup, and H. Collaco and D. Costa, for Portugal, which was to have taken place, was postponed until next Saturday, owing to the match between Khoo and Cheng going into five sets and taking a few minutes under two hours.

Carson defeated Madar 6-2, 6-0, 6-3, and Khoo beat Cheng by 7-5, 6-4, 5-7, 3-0, 9-7. Both these singles were fairly interesting to watch, especially that of Khoo and Cheng. They were well matched and gave the many spectators a thrill with the ever-changing score. At one period, Khoo was leading by two sets, but Cheng made a brilliant rally and won the next two. The games in all four dragged out to deuce, each player hitting long and steadily strokes in easy rallies. Carson was the more experienced player of the two in his match, and his placing and smashing were too much for Madar, who, though playing an exceedingly good game, was outclassed every minute.

AMERICAN'S SUCCESS.

The game which really drew the crowd was the last of the doubles match between "Dud" Squires and L. D. Carson and Gordon Lum and Khoo Hooi-hy (the first semi-final for the Roper Cup). The score on Saturday stood at two sets all and five games all in the fifth set. Immediately after the first singles, this match was resumed. Lum and Khoo won the first game, making the score 6-5, but on Squires' service he took the next game to even the score. Each side won service until the games were seven-all, when Squires took the game on Khoo's service. His play was again superb and this time Carson gave all that was best in him. He played a sterling game to the end of the match, which he and Squires won at 8-7, thus, entering the final.

Though only six games were played in this match, the spectators were glad of a chance to see such a four fighting for supremacy. The players themselves evidently sensed their responsibility and were ever on alert, with the consequence that excellent tennis was played by all. Carson and Squires at the net were invincible, letting few balls go by. Carson was given his chance at his famous net smashes, which he executed with such amazing rapidity and accuracy.

CHENG V. KHOO.

Jumping ahead from the first set, Cheng won five games by feeding his opponent with difficult shots. Khoo, however, remained collected and, despite such a terrific lead, crept up and took the following set rather to win the set at 7-5. His timing and placing were brilliant. Cheng also was playing a good game, but Khoo at times showed greater experience with little tricks of tennis.

The second game went to Khoo at 6-4. Cheng was playing a rather hasty game, but at times his quick retrievals and unexpected placings were too much for Khoo. He had an idea of firing Khoo out by varying his placings from one extreme corner to another and to centre to lead to surprise shot when Khoo was too tired to run. This worked once or twice, but Khoo ever was on the alert and his remarkable returns were well applauded.

The tables were turned in the third set, when Cheng won at 7-5. His playing was fine and his placing was too tricky for Khoo, who seemed to dawdle and let balls go that looked too difficult. His service also became weak, whereas Cheng's was strong and exceedingly difficult to return. seldom did either run to the net to volley, but carried on their rallies from outside the tape.

COLLAPSE AND RECOVERY.

In the fourth set, Khoo went completely to pieces and practically gave the set to Cheng at 6-3. He seemed tired but nevertheless still carried on the fight. Cheng's game was improving with every stroke and it was thought he surely would win the match. After a few minutes rest play was resumed. Cheng won the first game on his service but Khoo won his to make it one-all. Cheng won the following four games to lead by 5-1, then Khoo again made a spectacular rally as in the first set and won four games to level the score at five-all. Cheng took the next game on his service to lead once more, but Khoo caught up on his. He then won the next on Cheng's service, but Cheng won the next to tie the score 7-7.

The last two games were nerve-racking for both players and spectators. They both ran into deuce. The players were both playing safe, not taking any chances at random shots or smashes. Khoo eventually won the set at 9-7. His long experience in the game won him this last set, but on the whole both played remarkable good games and it was purely a matter of stamina that found the winner.

BOBBY JONES' NEW RECORD

ROUND IN 62

Bobby Jones, although still out of competitive golf, has accomplished what he failed to do in all the years when he was at his zenith and the height of his fame. He has gone round a course in 62. This represents the lowest score he has ever accomplished either in competition or practice.

He made only one mistake during the round, at the eighth where he took three puts for the only five on his card. He had one two, and nine, three, and was eight under par.

The Highlands Country Club course measures 6,290 yards and its par of 70 is considered to be

PROSPECTS OF THE CLUBS

TITLE HOLDERS CONTENTED

ARMY TEAM WELL ENDOWED

By "Bully-Off".

BY the beginning of October hockey will again take its place among the leading winter sports in the Colony, with something like 160 teams playing the game. During the coming two or three weeks I propose to deal with the prospects of some of the Clubs, with a few details as to personnel.

IT is perhaps fitting to start with the Police, last year's champions of the Mamak Tournament. They take the field with the same team which brought them premier honours, and they are confident of being able to retain the championship again. And personally I see no reason why they should not.

UNFORTUNATELY they will lose the service of Perkins who leaves for Home late in November. There are no European players signed on, but they have several promising Indian recruits who are at present at the Police Training School. With a little more practice they should be able to fill any gaps which may occur as the season progresses. Chief amongst these recruits are B. 726 (forward), B. 611 (full-back), and B. 643 (half-back). Owing to the increased number of players enlisted I understand the Police propose fielding two teams, but only one will be entered in the Mamak competition.

GOUGH, their centre half, has been elected captain, and is going all out to improve the team work and team spirit of the side. In most of their games last year the Police were without a captain and as a result they lack tactical advice.

THROUGH the generosity of the Hon. I.G.P. who has sanctioned leave from duty for all players in Tourney games they will be able to field their strongest possible side in all Mamak matches.

THE Y.M.C.A.

Galaxy Of Talent Available

FOR the last three or four seasons the Y.M.C.A. has consistently turned out a 1st XI which must be placed among the leading teams in the Colony, and this year promises to be no exception to the rule. When the Mamak League was organised in 1931 the "Y", together with the H.K. Club, considered that the interests of the game it was wiser to continue the friendly fixtures which up to that time had provided the practically only hockey in the Colony, and are not entering the competition this year.

SINCE last season T. J. Price, R. A. Bates and A. Tate have returned from leave, but the "Y" will suffer a heavy loss later this season as D. McLellan and H.J.P. Lowe depart on leave. McLellan has been captained the Club for the past two seasons and the absence of these two centre-halves will be felt.

G. SOMMER, who formerly played for Hamburg, and the German Club and the "Y" since coming to the Colony will be a strong contender for the position in the centre of the 1st XI intermediate line as he has signified his intention to play regularly. Several good goal-keepers are available in F. Fowler, S. Shields, V. M. Benwell and A. H. Moss. The first named, if he continues the form shown at the end of last season especially that against Macao in April last, should get the position, and may easily be picked for the Colony in one of the Interport games.

IN all the Y.M.C.A. have thirty playing members of whom the following are likely first team men: T.J. Price (Capt.), W.J. Brown (vice-capt.), D. McLellan, H.J.P. Lowe, E.O. Murphy, A. Tate, E.F. Solk, G. Sommer, G.H. Fowler, S. Shields, F. Fowler, S. Shields, J. Farmer, R. Baldwin, R. A. Bates, G. F. Lammer and G. Lammer.

G. T. Palmer is a non-playing committee member and is the Club's representative on the Hong-

Hongkong Hockey Association

AFFILIATION TO E. H. A.

An application by the Hongkong Hockey Association for affiliation to the English Hockey Association has been approved by the Council of the Home Association.

The news was disclosed in a letter read by Mr. F. A. Kemp, Hon. Secretary, at a meeting of the Council of the Hongkong Hockey Association held in St. Andrew's Church Hall yesterday evening.

Mr. A. A. Dand, Vice-President, who presided, mentioned that the first application apparently had gone astray and a second application was sent to England.

The Chairman also mentioned that the local hockey handbook would be published in a week or so. It contained a host of information, biographies and reports of local tournaments and interport matches, and was a very good dollar's worth.

Sporting Interport and local international hockey badges, approved by the Council, were shown to members.

It was decided to form a sub-committee to see to the award of the badges, and on the suggestion of Mr. A. E. P. Guest, it was decided that the committee be composed of representatives of the countries that participated in the tournaments. The committee, which will be under the chairmanship of Mr. W. W. Woodward, will also compile a list of the badges awarded. Letters from Commodore F. Elliott, R. N., and Colonel J. H. Morris, according to vice-presidents of the Association, were also read by the Secretary.

UMPIRES BOARD.

The following were elected to serve on the Hockey Umpires Board—Surgeon-Lieut-Comdr. Phillips, R.N., Major Campbell, and Mr. G. T. Palmer.

The application by the newly formed Y.M.C.A. Men's Hockey Association for affiliation to the Hongkong Hockey Association was approved.

Those present at the meeting were:—Mr. A. A. Dand (vice-president), Mr. F. A. Kemp (Hon. Secretary), Mr. A. M. Xavier (Hon. Treasurer), Captain R. C. S. Bates (Army), Pay-Lieut-Comdr. F. G. Le Gros (Navy), Messrs. A. E. P. Guest (St. Andrew's), Surin Singh (Radio Sports Club), Johan Dadd (Kowloon Indians Tennis Club), P. K. Naidu (United Hockey Club), G. T. Palmer (Y.M.C.A.), F. G. Le Gros (Navy), J. C. Pennell (Police), and Cheng Kai-shu (University).

At the conclusion of the Council meeting, a fixture meeting, at which club captains and secretaries attended, was held.

INTERPORT SWIM

Hongkong Not Very Successful

Shanghai, Sept. 14. In the second day's swimming in the Interport contests at Shanghai, Hongkong failed to reproduce the form shown on the first day. The Colony representatives only managed to capture three second places; while Tientsin obtained two firsts, out of the three events.

Tientsin forfeited three points for water polo yesterday, thus allowing Hongkong to retain the lead with 24 points, to their 21 and Shanghai's 15.

THE RESULTS.

880 Yards, Free Style.—1. L. Norment (Tientsin); 2. L. Rosa-Pereira (Hongkong); 3. A. Rosa (Hongkong). Time: 12 min. 17 1/5 secs. Shanghai record.

100 Yards, Free Style.—1. N. G. Hammond (Shanghai); 2. W. Lawrence (Hongkong); 3. G. Nigmaty (Tientsin). Time: 58 5/8 secs. Interport record.

Medley Relay.—1. Tientsin; 2. Hongkong. Time: 1 min. 53 1/2 secs.—Reuter.

ROYAL CORPS OF SIGNALS

Players Leaving In November

THE prospects of the Royal Corps of Signals for the coming season seem, at present, quite rosy, but they will be badly hit in December when they will lose three of their best players, Cross (goal), Whitehead (left back) and Neale (centre-half), who leave for England. The team up to the end of November will be the same as that which finished last season. Martin will be captain, and Dilley, vice-captain. May, who scored 17 goals during the last six weeks of the 1933-34 season will again be in the centre of the attack.

THE Signals have entered the Mamak Competition and hope to finish further up the table than they did last season. They have altered their colours to green and white quartered shirts with R.C.S.

IMPORTANT LEAGUE TENNIS MATCH LEFT UNSETTLED

IN BID FOR TITLE

CRAIGENGOWER & S. CHINA

IN "C" DIVISION

PLAY OFF NEXT SUNDAY

Craigengower and South China Athletic Association attempted to settle their all-important "C" Division tennis league match on Thursday, but bad light stopped play with South China leading by 4½ sets to 2½.

As a result the match was abandoned without a decision, the two captains agreeing to replay the match on Sunday week, September 23.

The result of this encounter is of prime importance. Unless there is a draw, one of the two teams will have the privilege of meeting the C.R.C. in what must be the deciding match for the championship.

The Chinese Recreation Club, who have still to play both the S.C.A.A. and Craigengower, are as yet undefeated. Both South China and Craigengower also enjoy this record.

The struggle between these three teams has created more interest in the "C" Division title than at any other time during the last five years.

SCORES.

Scores of Thursday's match are appended.

F. N. Wong and C. P. Ip (S.C.A.A.) beat Howard and Howard 6-0; beat Hussain and Hussain 6-0; beat Howard and Kitchell 6-0.

H. K. Ho and K. F. Lui (S.C.A.A.) drew with Howard and Howard 6-6; beat Hussain and Hussain 1-0; beat Howard and Kitchell 6-4.

P. K. Kwok and C. N. Tsang (S.C.A.A.) lost to Hussain and Hussain 2-1; lost to Howard and Kitchell 0-6.

U.S. ATHLETICS FOR MANILA

Following Completion Of Japan Tour

Tokyo, Sept. 11.

John J. Magee, coach of the group of American track and field athletes which Sunday defeated Japan in a dual meet, told the Associated Press to-day he would accept the invitation of the Philippine Amateur Athletic federation and take seven or eight of the stars to Manila.

He said the trip would be made after the completion of the present tour of Japan, now scheduled for next Sunday, and that the personnel would depend upon performance and the condition of the men in athletic meets still to be staged.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

By MABEL McELLIOTT

She burrowed deep into her pillow, wishing she need not face the day. "What a fool I always am!" she groaned.

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

SYLVIA RIVERS, rich and spoiled, rules the younger set of Larchmont, fashionable New York suburb. Sylvia gives a party at the Yacht Club and takes all "the crowd" except DOUGLAS RAEVORN of whom she is jealous.

Boots, heartbroken by the snub, accepts a belated invitation to a dinner at the club that same night given by MRS. WATERMAN, one of the town's social hosts.

HARDY WHITMORE, one of Sylvia's guests, rushes Boots off the dance floor and tries to persuade her to go sailing. She refuses and runs away, losing her shoes. Hardy goes off in his boat and falls overboard. The entire club is aroused and he is rescued. Boots, embarrassed and ashamed, is driven home by RUSS LUND, swimming instructor.

CHAPTER V

Boots had her hand on the side door now, fumbling for the handle. "I guess—I must have made a mistake," she said confusedly. "Isabel Hathway was going to pick me up—"

"That's all right!" She could see the flash of white teeth in Russ Lund's sunburned face. Miss Hathway asked me to get you—"

He slid the motor into high and, since they were already gliding swiftly away from the club, Boots had no choice but to sit back.

"I don't know what this is all about," Russ Lund said lightly and gayly, tooting the little car with an expert hand, "but it's all right with me. I take you home, wheel the bus back to the club for Miss Hathway—that's all right."

Boots felt a slow flush creeping over her face. "I lost my shoes," she said uncomfortably, in the pause that it was going to be darned awkward getting back into the club, explaining to my hostess—"

"You poor kid!"—His tone of sympathy was almost unendurably sweet to her jarred nerves.

"Don't be afraid," she warned. "If you do, you'll have me sobbing on your shoulder in a minute."

"Those old hens around town would be only too glad to pick a fight with a pretty girl like you," Russ pursued, interrupting himself to ask, "Which way do I turn from here? What's your street? I'm not sure of it at night."

She told him and in a few broken phrases sketched the events of the evening, omitting names.

"Rotten break!" the young man commented mildly when she finished. "So you can see, I'm exceedingly grateful to you for helping me out of this." The words were hard to say. They almost stuck in her throat. A week ago she hadn't known Russ Lund was on earth, except in a dim way. He was merely the red-necked, square-jawed young man in the black jersey, with the woolly white sweater slung over his shoulder. The swimming "pro" at the club. Nobody knew him, except the "kids" and the older women who were timidly beginning to learn to swim.

"That's perfectly O. K."

She noticed for the first time that he was not in evening clothes. As if in answer to her unspoken thought, he said easily, "I was helping out in the men's coat room. Have to earn an honest penny wherever I can."

She liked him, for that even while deploring the necessity, she thought he'd seen you on the floor," she told him.

"Me?" His great laugh rang out. "No, I don't run with that crowd. They were at her door now. The dim amber bulb burned in the front hall. All the rest of the house was shrouded in silence and darkness.

"Well—well, thanks a lot."

"O. K.," he said again. "Can you make it in those thin stockings?"

She nodded, smiling nervously.

"I'll be seeing you," Russ Lund told her. Then she was on the walk, the flagstones cool under her feet. She was flying up the stairs. She was inside.

Isabel would get her wrap for her, so that would be all right. But her slippers were irretrievable. Well, it couldn't be helped. Probably there'd been kicked into the water, in all the confusion attending Hardy's rescue.

Oh, well, time enough to worry about that. Meantime, she could be thankful she was safe at home, unnoticed.

She undressed swiftly and crept between the sheets. Sleep eluded her and she lay tossing for hours, by turns worried and hopeful. She would call Mrs. Waterman first thing in the morning. She would say—what on earth would she say? Oh, nonsense—forget all this—it doesn't matter—it'll all be the same in a thousand years—

When she awoke it was to cooler winds and far blue skies. Then memory returned and with a sick sense of despair she burrowed deep into her pillow, wishing she need not face the day. There would be the inevitable apologies to make; a girl who struggled and got away, losing her slippers. Suddenly Boots began to laugh, shaking hysterically.

"Why, the whole thing's ridiculous, completely and utterly ridiculous," she told herself. The very sound of the words, spoken aloud, comforted her. There was nothing to it. She would go up to Mrs. Waterman's, explain, be forgiven. But at the thought of forming the words, her courage faltered. No—no—she couldn't.

She jumped out of bed and, throwing on her thin blue dressing gown, rushed down the hall on the bathroom. "I cold shower would drive the blues away."

The smell of coffee floated up from the lower regions and the unmistakable sound—of Linda, pushing—the carpet sweeper around. No one in the world ran the carpet sweeper as Linda did. It sounded, Mr. Taeburn said, in moments of exasperation, "like a Mack truck gone wild."

"Hi, Linda!"

A coffee-coloured face, framed in a sort of mob-cap, appeared in the frame of the stairwell.

"Yo' mother's gone to market. Yo' father's off to the city long ago. He taken the 8.10."

"Well, how about some breakfast?" It was half-past 9 when Boots reappeared, her golden mane damp and sleek. Linda had brought the tray upstairs and in luxury the girl basked. The coloured woman looked admiringly at the little figure in the sheer pajamas, the slinky robe belted tightly around the slender hips.

"Seems like you was off partying last night."

Boots shrugged. Oh, if she only hadn't gone to that wretched party!

"Somebody telephone you while back," Linda contributed, shuffling around, picking up scattered books, straightening tumbled pillows.

"Boots' heart raced. "Somebody? Who?"

"Dunno. Some lady. She didn't leave no message. Say she call later."

The toast was so much sweeter now, but Boots forced herself to swallow it anyhow. She had to face the day—there was no shrinking away from it.

Her mother did not come back and at long last she got into her freshest frock, a crisp brown and white striped linen, and began to walk slowly in the direction of the Waterman house. It was an imposing structure, a gabled and turreted affair of grim gray stone and oldstone. Boots had always hated it and to-day it seemed especially forbidding.

The elderly maid who opened the door was grim, too, and Boots thought she looked at her rather oddly. "Mrs. Waterman will be down in just a few minutes."

Boots wandered around the big, overfurnished study with its cabinets crowded with Copenhagen ware and Dresden bits. There were carved and gilded chairs, leather chairs, eastern carpets. The walls were covered with an expensive but hideous initiation pine, the owner's sole concession to modern decoration. Boots' heart grew more leavened with every moment spent there. When at last the first step of the house's mistress sounded in the hall she felt as if she might sink to the ground from sheer weakness.

Nor were her fears dispelled by Mrs. Waterman's appearance and her first words.

"Well, well, this is indeed a sad affair," said the tall, imposing lady. "Oh, I'm so terribly sorry." Boots began falteringly. Then she observed, with acute astonishment, that the older woman's eyes were red-rimmed.

Surely—surely her escape had not been sufficiently important to bring tears from the bright blue all-seeing eyes of Clarissa Y. Waterman!

"It was most unfortunate!" agreed the other. "It was good of you to come."

Boots took heart from this tone, and plunged on. "Oh, but of course I came. What else could I do, in the circumstances? If you only knew how sorry I am! And the way it happened! Why, anyone could understand it. It might have happened to anyone!"

She was being slightly incoherent and she knew it. But she couldn't help herself. She had to go on. Heavens above, was the old woman actually weeping over her (Boots') confession? Yes, there were unmistakable tears in her eyes now. This, thought Boots, solemnly is awful. Never again, so long as I live.

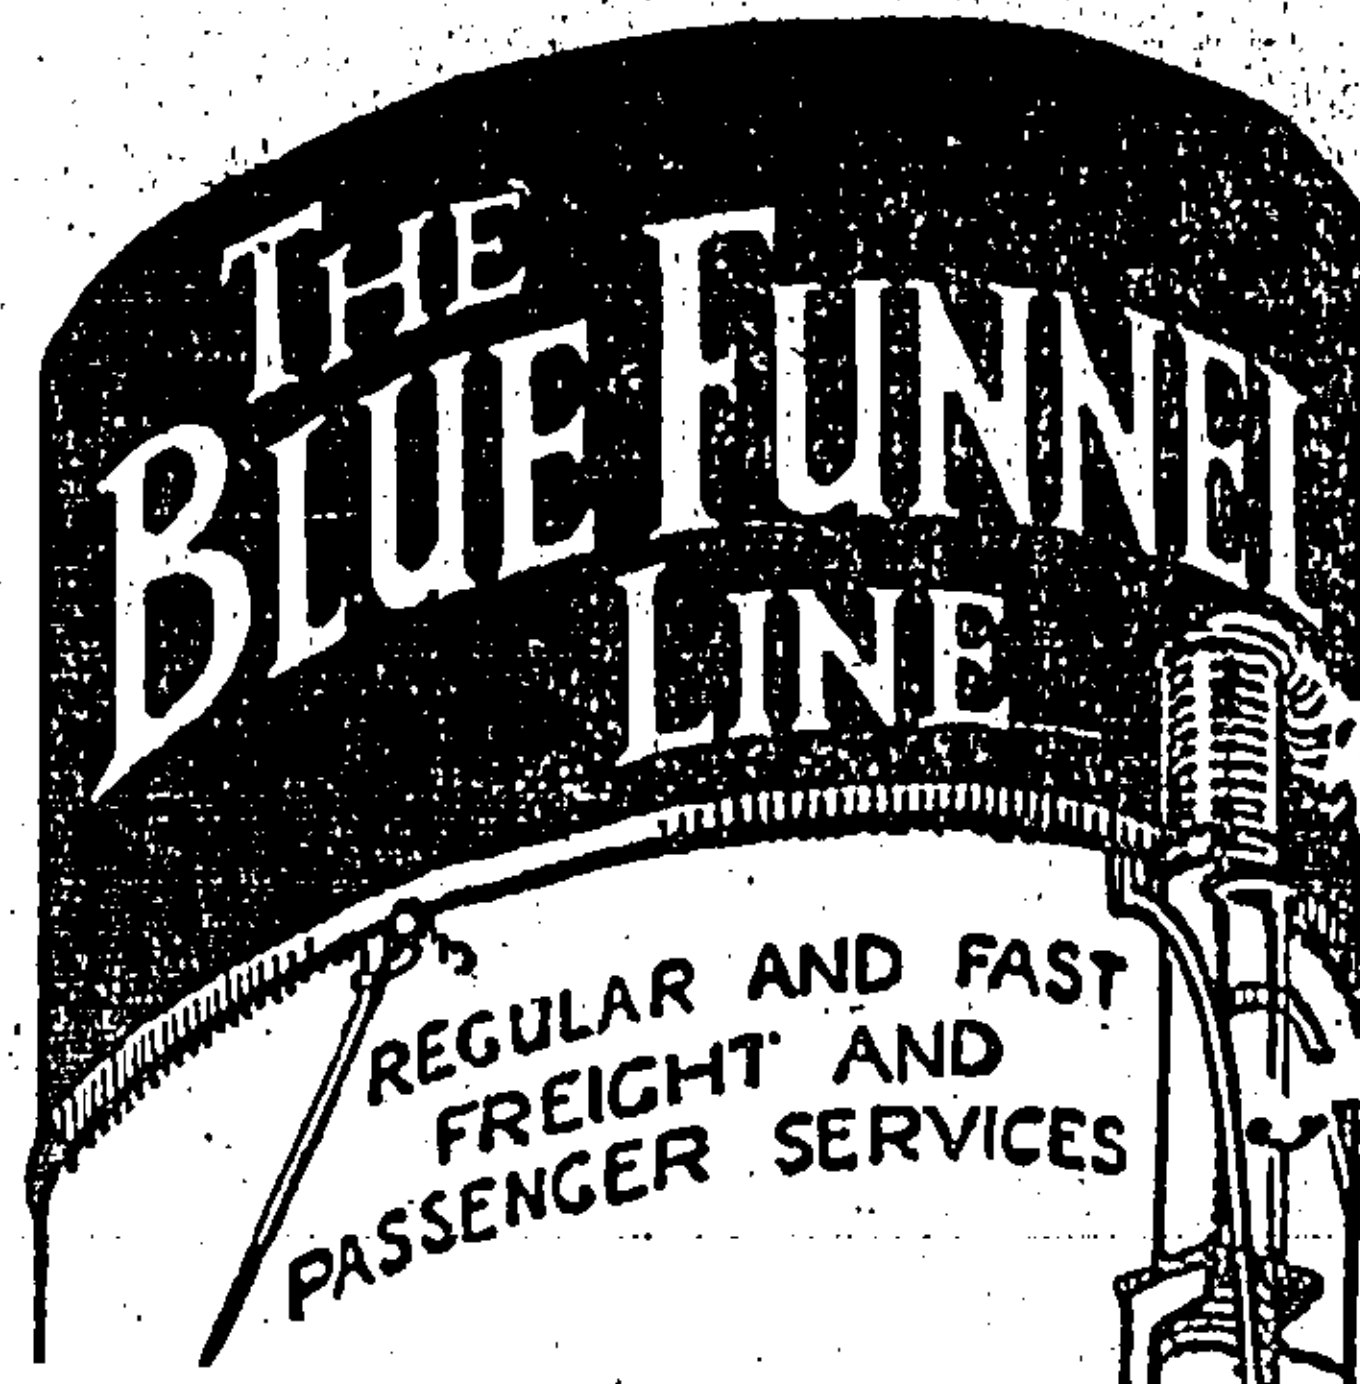

But what was Mrs. Waterman saying?

"As I said to Florida last night, one never knows. And Cousin Ella seemed so well, just the past month or so. She even came down to lunch yesterday. When that waiter came to the table with the message last night I thought it was from Henry. He'd been threatening to run on from California any day, to see her. Then I rushed off to the telephone—and dear dear, the nix! said Dr. Frank had taken her to the hospital. A stroke—I I didn't even stop to explain to anyone. There was a good deal of excitement, as I left. Some young man was saved from drowning. I hope you got home all right?"

The sudden weight which had been pressing on Boots' heart was lifted now. She could have sung aloud from sheer thankfulness. But poor Cousin Ella! She mustn't forget her. Boots fairly flew down the street, once she had got away from Mrs. Waterman's careful remonstrances and the iron fence of the big house. Once home, she telephoned Isabel.

"Oh, my dear, I tried to get you first thing this morning!" cooed her friend. "How did everything go?"

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1914. Received, September 15, 4.15 a.m.)
New York, Sept. 14.
Seaman Joseph Spillig, of the ill-fated Morro Castle, testifying at the continued inquiry into the disaster, to-day asserted that the ship's lifeboats were in poor condition.

The store-keeper, William O'Sullivan gave evidence relating to the highly inflammable cleaning fluid used on board. Its use, he said, was a violation of law and company rules.

The inquiry was adjourned until Monday.—United Press.

MODERN DANCE DEMONSTRATIONS

TWO CHINA STARS DELIGHT

The demonstrations of modern ballroom dancing at the Hongkong Hotel Roof Garden by Miss Evelyn Chen, dance queen of China, and her partner, Mr. Theodore Chen, international champion of Shanghai and champion dancer of China, are deservedly attracting much attention. Both artists show themselves to be extremely talented exponents of the latest steps in dancing.

Miss Chen, who, incidentally, is the star of the Morlin Opera Company, is the type of Chinese girl whose graceful figure is the envy of all Western women. Gracefulness is not limited to her figure, for her terpsichorean deportment is even more admirable, and instantly shows how she became China's Dance Queen for 1934.

Mr. Theodore Chen's interpretation of modern ballroom dancing is fascinating to watch. The delightful pair are especially attractive when waiting, their demonstrations of this particular dance evoking more than the usual applause.

European residents of Hongkong, especially, should make a point of not missing the attraction provided by these talented dancers. Incidentally, this is the first time that a Chinese couple have appeared in an entertainment feature at Hongkong Hotel.

CHINA'S LOSSES IN DROUGHT

MILLIONS LOST BY FARMERS

Nanking, Sept. 15.
The Nanking Ministry of Industry has published the results of the investigation recently undertaken in Kiangsu, Chekiang and Anhui Provinces, showing the extent to which the farmers suffered through the recent drought.

The report states that the total losses of crops in these three provinces alone are valued at $528,000,000. At least 50 per cent. and upward of the whole area of each of the provinces was affected by the drought.—Central News.

BRITISH IMPORTS AND EXPORTS

August Returns Show Expansion

London, Sept. 14.

The Board of Trade returns for August shows an expansion of both imports and exports, as compared with August 1933.

Imports were of the value of £20,027,050, being an increase of £2,000,832 as compared with the figures for July and of £3,361,783 on August last year.

Exports were of the value of £32,090,009, a decrease of £139,012 on the figure for July, which, owing to the holiday season, had more working days than the month under view, and an increase of £1,093,261 over the total for August of 1933.

The value of re-exports during the past month was £3,301,697.

EIGHT MONTHS FIGURES:

For the first eight months of this year imports totalled £249,444,250, an increase of £49,281,061 compared with the corresponding period of last year, while exports at £265,089,324 show an increase for the eight months of £18,910,695.

The increase in the volume of imports during the past eight months, of nearly fifty millions, is heaviest in the category of raw materials and unmanufactured articles, which, compared with the corresponding period of 1933, show an advance of £27,654,984. Articles wholly or mainly manufactured increased by £17,626,342, and food, drink and tobacco by £4,015,220.

In regard to exports during the eight months, articles wholly or mainly manufactured show an advance of £15,091,688 on last year's figures, while raw materials exported increased by £1,831,076, and food, drink and tobacco by £1,980,815.—British Wireless.

The Gazette contains detailed schedule in regard to the various recreation grounds of the Colony.

A second dividend or return of capital at the rate of $17 per share has been declared in the case of the Fei Lun Steamship Co., Ltd., in voluntary liquidation.
